York Hi Seniors Honored At Tea

On March 18, the York College girls were hostesses at a tea in honor of the York high school senior girls and their sponsors. The tea was given from four to five o'clock in the Dean Amadon Reception Room at Middlebrook Hall. About twenty guests were present, sixty in all.

Following singing in unison of the York alma mater, Betty Auchard, junior, York, Nebraska, gave an original musical reading, "Christopher Robin." A trio composed of Evelyn Thomas, junior, Topeka, Kansas; Barbara Benfer, junior, Robinson, Kansas; and Joyce Klingman, sophomore, Green, Kansas, sang "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," accompanied by Ora Lewis, freshman, Concordia, Kansas.

Janice Coleman, freshman, Riverdale, California, gave a short summary concerning the "Highlights of York College." Concluding the program, Joyce Klingman sang "My Friend" by Mallotte.

Following the program, tea was served, during which quiet music was played. The York high girls were then invited to a tour of the dormitory.

"Cinderella" and "Prince Charming" Guests At Banquet Festivities

Every girl dreams of being carried away on a white horse by a prince charming. If no dreams came true it wasn't the fault of the Spring Banquet committees as they had the sitting all arranged.

To begin the evening's entertainment Prince Charming and Cinderella entered the magic filled room through a large carriage in the front of the banquet hall. Thus were they introduced as representative man and woman of York College for 1950-1951. Cinderella's Fairy God Father, Bob Herrick, acted as toastmaster for the celebration. A toast is always in order and no one could do it better than the court jester, Clair Marvel. Cinderella is no one to hold grudges so she let her sisters sing "When You Wish Upon A Star" in her honor. The trio consisted of Barbara Benfer, Joyce Klingman, and Evelyn Thomas. Even the step-mother had a part in the program as she gave a reading. Masquerading as the wicked step-mother was none other than Lois Miller. This story wouldn't be complete unless the mice were present so Bob Herrick (it is a good trick if you can be a mouse and a Fairy God Father at the same time), Myron Fessler, Paul Woelfe and Harold French represented the four mice doing their bit as a quartette.

Those people making possible this banquet were divided into three committees. Heading the program committee was Evelyn Thomas, Topeka, Kans., with Carol Denton, York, and Clair Marvel, Coffeyville, Kans., as assistants. The tickets were taken care of by Laura Taylor, York, Lois Miller, Dawson, and Chuck Emerick, Portland, Ore., chairman. Decorations were provided by M. Fessler, Clarinda, Ia., chairman, Ruth Johnson, York, Elaine Gile, Concordia, Kans., Jean Morton, Russell, Kans., Betty Robinett, Riverdale, Calif., Naomi White, Wichita, Kans., and Bob Voris, Riverdale, Calif.

20 Students - Faculty Give Blood to Bank

Report from Mrs. Margaret Koontz, head of the Blood Bank Campaign for the Red Cross on the campus indicates that approximately 20 students and faculty members each gave a pint of blood during the day of March 28th at the city auditorium.

Information released by Mrs. R. E. Karrer, director of the city wide project shows about 150 donors altogether. This is greatly under the 200 goal set by the committee.

Committee Gives Materials Promise

Meeting in a special session on Tuesday, March 20, the Building and Campaign committees worked all day on plans for the financial campaign and consideration of best procedure.

Heading the committees was Bishop Stauffacher, of the Southwest Area. The question of whether it is possible to secure building materials has been raised. The committee has assurance that the necessary steel and other materials will be available when necessary.

Further information will be released when details are known.

Holy Week Services Bring Alumni Speakers

Special guest speakers at the Holy Week Chapel Programs were four former graduates of York College and one graduate of Campbell College (formerly in Kansas, but now merged with York). Each gave a talk appropriate to the day he spoke.

Representing the Day of Confusion, Monday of Passion Week, Dr. Paul Porter, Aurora, spoke on "The Perfect Christ." Commemorating the Day of Authority, Dr. Harlan Thomas, Topeka, Kansas, conference superintendent, spoke on "Christ's Mission." The Day of Silence brought Rev. Vaughn Leaming, York, with the sermon entitled "Significant Silence."

On the Day of Fellowship (Last Supper) Rev. Lyle Anderson, Lincoln, spoke on "The Approachable Christ." Ending the week on Good Friday was Rev. Paul Riggs, Shelby, speaking on "Christ's Last Prayer."

Spring Banquet Scene Of Annual Presentation

At the annual Spring Banquet which was held March 27 at the E. U. B. Church, Betty Auchard, junior, York, and John Mann, junior, Falls City, were revealed as Representative Man and Woman. The two honorees were chosen by popular vote of the student body on the basis of active participation in college affairs.

Active in dramatics, Betty Auchard is a member of the Alpha Psi Omega. She is a leading character in the play cast of "Arsenic and Old Lace" which is to be presented tonight. Betty's other activities include traveling choir, of which she has been a member for two years, Zetas, and the Panther Club. Besides her house-keeping duties, she is also an amateur artist.

John Mann, while a three letter man in football is student manager of the athletic department and a member of the Y Club. In addition to his activities in athletics, John is a member of Life Work Recruits, YMCA, PALS, and a past member of the Panther Club.

Press Guild Activates New Award System

The Press Guild is about to undergo some major changes in the next few months. A committee has been appointed to revise the club's constitution as the changing times have outdated the old one.

One complaint that has been justly given is the fact that the reporters have little or no recognition for the many hours that they spend to give the student body a school paper. Committees have been selected to create a point system whereby awards may be given for service rendered. The kind of awards are under consideration and will be reported upon at the next regular meeting.

UNDERSTANDING . . . THE BASIS FOR LOVE

Of course, we must first realize that there is only one source of Understanding; and only one way it may be obtained. Understanding springs from Love and only unless one loves another may he ever come to understand that person. Understanding is the quality which distinguishes Love from simple friendship. A greater man than I had this in mind when he said, "Love is not blind; on the contrary, Love sees all faults, but Love understands."

Understanding is a combination of the proper amounts of thinking and feeling. Thinking must be done in your head. We are given mental equipment to use and by thinking, we are able to establish a better relationship with God, the Universe, ourselves and others. A good, healthy bond with any of these forces—God, universe, self, others—cannot be obtained without some degree of mental activity.

Some lay too much stress upon thinking and try to eliminate all feeling or emotion from their lives. They wish to live entirely by what they call reason. The hard fact is that they have not done enough thinking, or they would realize that emotions are a necessary factor to happy living. These people are "ill-logically" and are far from achieving Understanding.

Since Love is basically a feeling, all its parts (of which Understanding is only one) must contain or hear a close relationship to some type of feeling or emotion. In the case of Understanding, emotion must take the form known as "sympathy." That is, we must have the ability to feel as others feel. We must be able to feel the "bursting with joy" feeling in another's heart when he is happy, or the fluttery-hungry feeling that comes with disappointment. We must be able to feel both the "UPS" and the "downs" of the lives of others if we wish to understand them.

Just as there are those who try to eliminate emotion by the use of reason, there are those who refuse to exercise their mentality and strive to live entirely by the impossible process we often call "thinking with the heart." These persons often have a commendable degree of sympathy. But ability to feel with others, without the ability (or the refusal to use the ability) to realize why they feel as they do, leaves these "heart-thinkers" as far from achieving Understanding as those trying to live by reason only.

"Greater love hath no man than this—that he lay down his life for his friends." With these words, we proclaim Jesus the example of Love at its best.

And by His own words Jesus showed Himself to be the prime example of Understanding when He said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." R. H.

I See By The Papers

by Bob Herrick

I had a lot of fun the other day, just looking through some of the papers from other schools. How it happened that the editor should come up to me, shove a bundle of off-campus chronicles into my arms with the remark, "Don't find too much, you've been hogging space," is an incident which is still causing me to wonder. However, this is a review of a few of the best of all the good items I stumbled over.

"Eavesdropping again, I see," said Adam as his wife fell out of a tree. The Midland.

Gustavus Adolphus College Campus will be searched for the UGLIEST man on the campus, in a contest beginning April 4th. Too bad I'm not enrolled there; if I could qualify as a man, I'd be a cinch to win, and an honor like that ought to rate a picture on the front page of the Gustavian Weekly.

The Otterbein College publication, Tan and Cardinal, is getting deep. In the March 9th issue, Cicero was quoted as having said, "The authority of those who teach is often an obstacle to those who want to learn."—Hm-m-m- . . .

One: "Are they very strict in this school?"

Other: "Are they? Remember Jones? Well, he died in class and they propped him up until the lecture ended."—The Prospector.

I saved this for last, so I'd have time to get out of town. It should be "blamed" on Robert Q. Lewis, a la the North Central College Chronicle.

"Friend visits Czechoslovakia, sees man fall out of building, bounce twice. Friend walks on, gets arrested for passing bouncing Czech."

An April Dream

by William Wortman

Today we live in a Utopia,
Have things beyond our means.
We live in the biggest mansions
Ever seen in mortal dreams;
World peace is finally settled,
No need for guns or war;
We own everything we've wanted,
Need nothing at the store.

Every man is our brother,
We have that "compassionate heart,"
Sometimes we stop and wonder,
How did wars ever start?
There's no such thing as prejudice,
We are all on an equal plane.
If someone is hurt by his neighbor,
We all feel a bit of the pain.

We have love for each other,
Pride and envy are all gone.
The new day is just beginning,
And this is only the dawn.
Maybe these are only dreams,
Stories from Sunday School,
But someday in a more perfect world
This won't be April Fool.

It's A Dog's Life

by Bill

Do you feel all run down and do you lack ambition? Is it hard for you to concentrate and keep from daydreaming or just plain snoozing? This can mean only that spring is here or tests are taking place. Both are at Y. C. and the result is empty faces and heads.

Isn't it remarkable what an important part conscience is playing in the basketball scandal. A good conscience nowadays tells you something is wrong—after you've done it. We have heard for a long time that we don't pay our congressmen enough and some of their committees are showing it. A committee now is an incompetent group of men appointed by a fellow under pressure to do a useless job.

Weddings are the big topic of conversation here so this is a good time to say that there is only one thing worse than a wife who can cook and won't—that is a wife who can't and will. Then there were the newly weds who were trying to find a bus that had some room for them. He said, "I think we can squeeze in here, dear;" but she replied, "let's wait until we get home."

Did you realize that the year is one fourth over? What have we accomplished? We have gotten close enough to the 38th parallel that we can now argue about crossing it. We know now that some sport contests in the past haven't been played on the square. A few people realize that it is better to drink your alcohol in Hadacol than in a glass.

We have learned to brand anyone a commie who disagrees with us. Now some predictions:

I predict a standing room only crowd to the college play March 30; As a direct result of the choir trip we will have a marked increase in attendance from the west coast next year; that the St. Louis Cards will be in the world series; that we will move into the new Ad. building by second semester next year. Every one will have over a 90 average. Bye now and April Fool!

Is Force the Answer?

Are you constructive, destructive, or willing just to let the world go by? It isn't difficult for any one to choose in which class he would want to be placed. Without realizing it, all of us at one time or another are to some degree one of the three types. The sad part comes when people think they are constructively adding to the program of something but instead are causing destruction. It can and does happen to most of us.

The followers of Jesus just couldn't understand why He treated every one with love, not using force as a means to cause people to act the way He taught. We all realize that Jesus knew He couldn't bring goodness upon this earth by force. We would be wise to use a little of His wisdom.

Jesus knew His way was right and yet He would never use force upon an individual to cause him to follow His way. We only think our way is right, yet we use force to make people live according to our standards.

The question is . . . "Are we justified in considering our selves authorities on minor doings of every day living . . ."

THE IRANIAN SCENE

Views of the News from a Student

Iran is a great sea of sterile desert plateaus pierced by jutting mountain ranges that are surrounded by a ragged fringe of mountain peaks. Its people are intoxicated with intrigue, torn by poverty, engulfed in ignorance, and their government is being squeezed by foreign powers.

Iran is nearly three times the size of Texas, with fifteen million people drenched in pauperism. Iran is a land of mystery. We know little about her and we understand her even less. It is this same Iran that has been caught in the spot light on the stage of world affairs. This is not her first entrance on to the scene of world eminence. Iran is remembered for her leading part in the first act of world history more than two thousand years before the birth of Christ.

The part of Iran today in the play of world affairs may not be long but it is important. Iran has six per cent of the world's total supply of oil. This amount may seem insignificant when compared to the oil supply of the United States, but if this amount were to fall into the hands of the villain actor, Russia, it would become a powerful tool with which to stalk the western powers.

Iranian citizens are now protesting the monopoly of British oil interests in Iran. The Iranian people want to nationalize the oil industry because they believe it would relieve them of foreign influence and it would produce more revenue to be used for the benefit of the poverty stricken masses.

An Iranian premier has been shot to death because he favored the interests of western powers in Iranian oil fields. A new premier has been appointed. At heart he is favorable to the western powers, but the demonstration of violence used against the previous premier will make it difficult for the present one to show much favor to the western powers.

If Russia is watching closely her lines in this play, (which undoubtedly she is) she will no doubt interpret these actions as her cue to make a timely entrance upon the Iranian scene. If such action takes place, it will mean that one more puppet has been added to the Russian plot of conquest upon the stage of world affairs.

F. Winter, J. Mathis Bolster Tennis Team in Early Season

With the coming of spring weather, the thoughts of many turn to tennis. Bolstered with two returning lettermen, the York College tennis team has begun workouts.

Fred Winters and Jack Mathis are the two men returning from last year's net squad. Fred and Jack add experience as well as talent to the squad. Coach Roberts will look to them to be the stabilizing agent on his team.

Prospects, however, are very bright with the addition of several boys who have just entered school or who only this year found themselves. Many of the stand-outs are batting the ball with deadly accuracy and speed.

Damp weather as well as snow have curtailed the workouts. Smacking the ball against the gym wall has been the best workout that many have been able to find.

The boys have been playing matches, when the weather permits, so as to get some order to the rankings. At this writing, the top man and the men on each successive step have not been decided.

The squad has been cut to seven men, Winters, Mathis, Bill Watkins, Dale Smith, John Coover, Norman Allen, and Eugene Weaver. Competition between squad members has been rugged when playing for team berths. This points to a good season. Competition always sharpens up the individual.

Five Numeral Winners Boost Thinclad Prospects

Five returning lettermen pep the York College track team in the 1951 season. Bob Miller, Vic Suazo, Ito Martinez, Cecil Walker, and Darwin Newton provide the backbone of the thinclad squad.

York is almost a certainty to pick up many points in the distance runs and the weights. All the returning letter winners fall into these two categories. Incidentally, York has almost always been strong in these two divisions.

Darwin Newton is a hefty shot and discus man who has re-entered college this semester. He has been the nucleus of York's weight talent the last few years and is a virtual certainty to garner many points this season, and possibly set a new Y. C. record. Martinez is the other counterpart of the weight lettermen. Leto throws the javelin and looks to be the strongest point in that event. Miller and Walker both run the mile and the two mile which lends fuel to the idea that Y. C. is due to pick up quite a few points this year. Vic Suazo is an 880 man as well as a miler. Vic looks to be set for a pretty fair year.

Beside these letter winners, there is a good backing of men who are working out with an eye toward the team. Several of the promising boys are: Frank Wooters, sprints, high jump, broad jump, Dave Miller, 440 and 220, Harold French, 880, Norman Menzie, hurles and mile, Toby Atensio hurdles, Bob Voris, hurdles and sprints, Don Ebaugh, 440 and discus, Dick McClurg, weights, Gale Cook, weights, Glen Dey, weights, Dick Brooke, hurdles, Ron Pilgrim, sprints, broad jump, high jump, Bill Watkins, sprints and Telfer Epp, sprints.

A street lamp never hits an automobile except in self-defense.

Six Meets on Tap for York Tracksters Season Opens at Doane on April 6

At York College, the track season officially opened today and yesterday with the inter-class track meet. From here on until at least May 8, the thinclads will have their hands full. So far, there are six meets on tap in addition to this inter-class meet.

Even though Y. C. has dropped the Nebraska College Conference, three of the six meets will be with NCC teams.

On April 6, the Panthers will travel to Doane for a triangular meet with Doane and Hastings. Doane is the defending NCC champions and looks as strong as last year. Hastings is much weaker than last year and doesn't look to garner much glory.

April 20, Concordia of Seward will come to York for a dual meet. This one will probably be a toss up. A week later, on April 27, York will go to Dana for a triangular with Dana and Tarkio. These latter two usually field pretty good track squads.

Wesleyan will be host on April 30 to York, Doane, and Midland for a quadrangular. Doane, as has been mentioned, is strong, but Midland and Wesleyan are unknown quantities.

May 5 is the Central Church College Conference meet at Tarkio. This is the first year for the meet, and all winning times and distances will be records. York will have a chance, during the season, to test the other three entries, Concordia, Tarkia, and Dana. York looks to have a very good chance to go in this meet.

On May 8, York winds up the season with a trip to the Doane Relays. For the second year, the relays will be run off at night. The field events, however, will be in the afternoon with the running events left until evening.

That is the meets scheduled so far. However, it is possible that other meets may be worked in or added.

Pilgrim's Panther Potpourri

Well, here we am, back again. Being all worn out after a strenuous week of sports and tests our delightful little potpourri will be shorter than usual. Incidentally, we have had numerous comments on the word "potpourri" in the title of this selection. For those who refuse to pick up a dictionary and also for those who think we are illiterate (and are right), it comes from France and refers to a medley or mixture.

A new conference in which to compete which cannot possibly be as tough as the NCC which has been a rugged hurdle for York clubs in the past. The desire, on the part of many, to make good in the thinclad sport. A lot of good feeling between members of the squad.

Of course cold weather and rain have hampered workouts for most all sports, but the spring pro baseballers have been going strong. It makes us feel good to know that at least one scribe in the nation agrees with us on our choice of flag winners. Lyle Bremser of KFAB in Omaha, whom we think very highly of, picked the Giants and the Red Sox to take the National and American league flags respectively. After all the guff we took on the campus after our choice, this makes us feel pretty good.

For the benefit of those few students from Kansas, this slight interjection: Kansas State College lost the national basketball crown to Kentucky, 68-58. We believe, however, that this score was not representative. There must have been some behind-the-scenes action which allowed Kentucky to garner the honor; maybe added spirit on the blue grass state team or some unknown factor in the K-State squad. We figure that Kansas should have won the title.

We look for an improved track season for many reasons. Foremost is that there is a lot of material out for the squad, and can be developed into a good squad. Coach Roberts is a stickler for conditioning—always a good sign.

They Tramped These Halls

By J. C. Morgan

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stowe '20 have returned to York county after spending several months in Idaho. Mrs. Stowe completed a semester of graduate work at the University of Idaho.

Miss Vivian Olson x50, who is on furlough from her missionary work in Sierra Leone, West Africa, is attending the University of Nebraska this semester.

The Reverend and Mrs. Samuel Lee '36 have arrived in York after completing a five year period of service as Presbyterian missionaries among the people of Barrow, Alaska. They came by plane from Barrow to Fairbanks and by car from there to York, driving by way of Alcan highway. Their small daughter Jouneth Anne who was born in Alaska will find the States quite different from the land of ice and "midnight sun." David, who is 13, is a native Nebraskan. The Lees, after a period of visiting various Presbyterian Churches, will resume work in the pastorate.
