SHIPLEY-BACHMAN WEDDING OCCURS THIS SUMMER

Miss Irene Shipley and Dr. Walter Bachman were married Friday, August 31. The ceremony was held at the home of her parents near McCool, Nebraska.

The Reverend Susan Brown and Dr. G. T. Savery officiated. Only members of the immediate family were present at the evening ceremony.

Dr. Bachman is president of York College and Mrs. Bachman is head of the department of dramatic art. Both will continue in their present positions.

Dr. Bachman's home on East Eighth street is being partially redecorated and the couple will make their home there.

"Friendship," Theme of Y-W Tea

On Sunday, September 23, at 4:00 p. m. Middlebrook Hall Reception room will be the scene of the Annual Y. W. Tea. Expressly for the purpose of honoring new women students, the tea this year is in charge of Y. W. C. A. Vice-president, Barbara Bergland, senior, York.

General theme of the program is "Friendship" and will feature vocal and piano numbers and a dramatic reading as entertainment. The theme will be presented in diary form, each page a part of the program.

Invitations are in charge of Mabel Brandenburg, senior, Russell, Kansas, while refreshments are under the direction of Ora Lee Lewis, sophomore, Concordia, Kansas.

$10,000 Gift Establishes Orman Jeffrey Foundation

Thompson Gets New Gas Furnace

Occupants of Thompson Hall should enjoy life more fully this coming winter because of an improvement in the heating of the building. A new gas-fired Chrysler Airtemp furnace has been installed which is capable of an output of 160,000 B.T.U.'s and it is certain that this will furnish adequate heat to all the rooms in the building. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Attig and John are occupying the lower floor apartment, and Prof. Attig serves as Proctor.

Psych. Dept. Moves To New Location

In order to facilitate the housing situation on the campus, the psychology department has been moved to the ground floor of the house just north of Middlebrook Hall, the Oliver House. These quarters are to remain until the new administration building is constructed.

What was a large living room in this house is to be the main class room with enough space for 27 pupils. The kitchen has been converted into a lab for experimental psychology. All the equipment from last year's class, and much more to be added this year will make this one of the most complete psychology laboratories in the history of the college.

Prominent York County Farmer Wills To Fund

The Administration announces today that York College has received from Mr. Orman Jeffrey, who died just recently, a sum of $10,000 as a gift toward the York College Endowment fund. A long-standing friend and beneficiary of the College he insisted that this gift should not be announced during his life time. In keeping with his desires the Administration takes this medium to announce the gift.

Hopes to Be Inspiration

This gift, a government bond, is to establish the Orman Jeffrey Foundation and it is hoped that it may be an inspiration to others to make similar gifts to a fund which should mean a great deal to the College.

Campaign Progressing; Mark Over $150,000

Church Campaign Well Underway

Financial drives for the new administration building at York College are showing commendable progress according to Dr. G. T. Savery, York College business manager.

The local campaign committee reports that $150,000 out of the goal of $200,000 has been received in cash and pledges. This amount was boosted by a gift of $3,000 by Mrs. Charles Stroman of York in memory of her late husband. Mr. Stroman was for many years a prominent attorney in York.

Partial returns from churches in Colorado and New Mexico report that $24,000 in cash and pledges has been received. Dr. Carl B. Roop is in charge of this campaign. Partial coverage of the churches in the Nebraska conference amounts to $14,000. Bishop Ira D. Warner is in charge of these churches.

The Kansas conference has undertaken the canvass under their own leadership. Commendable progress has been made toward the goal of $40,000. Superintendent Dr. Donovan Smith and Dr. A. V. Howland are chairmen.

Recent reports from the Pacific coast area covering only eight churches report $6,091.

Several thousand dollars have been received from alumni and friends. The exact amount is unavailable.

The faculty of York College has given $4500. Bishop Warner was gratified at this response while in York recently.

Dr. Savery says the "plans and specification are almost complete. Survey of the proposed site was completed a few days ago."

Faculty Honors Students At Informal Fete

Chamber of Commerce Welcomes Incoming Student Body

Thursday, September 6, at 7:30 p. m. was the date of the York College reception for new students and faculty held in Middlebrook Hall dining room.

Miss Zeldia Wakelin, department of modern languages, presided; she introduced first Evelyn Thomas, Topeka, Kans., who played a piano solo, "Golliwog's Cakewalk," by Debussy. Naomi White sang, "I Love Life," Dean A. H. Bergen made several informal introductions and announcements and Mrs. Charles Bonne led the group in singing which closed by singing the college song. Jim Potter gave a reading, "Make-up". President Bachman made the welcoming address after which Mrs. Charles Boone, voice instructor, and Mr. Lee Huebert, department of English, sang a duet, "Make Believe." Refreshments of punch and cookies concluded the evening.

The next evening, Friday, Sept. 7, at 8:00, the York Chamber of Commerce welcomed new students and faculty at the city auditorium.

Their program consisted of several contests testing one's ability to blow up balloons, blow bubble gum, and drop eggs. A tap-dancing number and the main address by Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, President of the North Central Association and Director of Admission at the University of Nebraska, concluded the program. Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served.

Enrollment Stays At 1950-51 Level

Enrollment, the first semester of the school year 1951-52, is approximately the same as last semester with 180 students representing 16 states. The states represented are Nebraska, Kansas, California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kentucky, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, South Dakota, and South Carolina.

In view of the fact that many colleges have shown a drop in enrollment, the Administration feels this constancy in enrollment encouraging. Final enrollment data as to percentages in classes, etc., is not complete.

Mary and Sylma Warrantie Enroll At York College For Coming Year

Mr. and Mrs. Sylma Warrantie, who came from Freetown, Sierra Leone, West Africa, are studying at York College. Mr. Warrantie is a senior while Mrs. Warrantie is a special student.

Antonio College, and UCLA in California before coming to York. When asked, the Warranties spoke freely of their native land. In Sierra Leone, West Africa the classes of people are the same as in this country. The life of the

Mary and Sylma Warrantie

The Warranties decided to enroll in Y. C., after they heard the A Cappella choir perform on the West coast last spring. The choir left them with a favorable impression of York.

Mr. Warrantie is preparing for the ministry so that he can return to his native Sierra Leone for mission work. This mission of the E. U. B. church includes Albert Academy where he received his education and taught before coming to this country.

To obtain their higher education Mr. and Mrs. Warrantie had to work hard for the money to finance their trip to the United States. Mr. Warrantie studied at La Verne College, Mount San people of the middle class is comparable to the life of the average school teacher in the society of the United States. People of the lower class consider shoes a luxury. If they had enough money to buy shoes they wouldn't buy, because they could not afford to buy a second pair after the first pair had worn out. They would much rather have clothes and a hat to protect them from the sun.

The Christian atmosphere existing on the campus impresses Mr. and Mrs. Warrantie greatly. They state that they have been treated better in York than they have been anywhere since coming to this country.

"Get Acquainted"

Hour Begins

Y. F. Year

The annual Y. F. Get Acquainted hour was held at the church Sunday evening at 5:00 o'clock. Under the direction of Larry Thorson, junior, La Mesa, Calif., several choruses were sung. Games of charades on songs, win-kem, love your neighbor and Chinese tangle were played.

Following the picnic supper the group attended the first Youth Fellowship meeting of the fall semester under the direction of John Bergland, senior, who, by eating an orange, presented an object lesson.

All were asked to attend the evening service and provide a choir. The good response was illustrated by the sight of a full-to-overflowing choir loft. Dean Ashcraft presided over the evening service.

Jolly Up Begins Frosh Activities

Freshman Jolly-Up Friday evening, September 14, 1951 in the college gym, started Freshman week off with a bang. There were approximately 140 in attendance.

Freshmen were required to attend as circus characters. As they entered the door they were given slips of paper on which their names were written. Then they had to go through the line shaking hands and acquainting themselves with the names of everyone present. At the end of the line they took up their stations.

Myron Fessler, junior, Clarinda, Iowa, was master of ceremonies. After playing games, the age old tradition of introducing the Freshmen as a group was staged. The Freshmen sang the college song, all words correct, as a finale to the evening ritual.

Refreshments were in charge of Violet and Darrell Anderson, juniors, Phillips.

A More Abundant Life

Now is the time of the year for all good men, and women, too, to be thinking of the immediate school year ahead of us. Now is the time for all good staff members to be thinking up editorial material which considers the way each of us is going to use the next few months. We could drag out a lot of cliches which have been used in years past and are still good if understood. If such a thing were done, however, it might be pushing a thing too far, because there have been numerous references already made as to how you and I should conduct ourselves this year. These speeches, and other means of advice to the new and returning student, should be well-heeded. We should try to make the coming year one of profit to ourselves and everyone else concerned.

I think that every student should appreciate the backing that York College is receiving. You have heard, and should have been grateful for, the reports coming from various sources concerning the progress of the drive for funds to build the new building. The churches of the area and the people of the immediate locality have made this writer's heart glad by the way they are sacrificing to meet this emergency. They have realized that York College is an important institution. We should do our best to pay them back by accepting fully what York College offers . . . a training for "the more abundant life."

FROM THE PIDGEON HOLE 303

by the Editor

Lots of things go on that few take much note of. Have you stopped lately to listen to sounds? Exciting sounds, annoying, pleasant, and sounds that run deep, making the night air have a heart that beats and murmurs with the sound that we might prefer to call people sound. Sounds reveal much about the character of those you live and study with. Cars starting, whistlers, and idle conversation encompass the evening in a solidarity of living sounds—making the atmosphere hum with well-being and routine. Closer sounds—footsteps in the hall, the scratch of a pen on paper—aren't really important, but they let you know that people are around again for another year. That in itself is a comforting sound.

There is still plenty of room on the Sandburr Staff for anybody who wants some personal satisfaction from a job well done. Experience is not necessary. Some of the best workers are first and second year students.

Freshman Court is at its half-way mark and progressing as usual. We find always some who won't cooperate and others who are having a lot of fun for themselves.

Say you people with either gripes or suggestions you would like aired—shoot them our way in a letter. We promise to air them one way or another. Besides you can let off a lot of steam that way.

This is addressed to budding geniuses or just anybody who can spell or even those who can't. (We have a few on the staff). We need plenty of original material—short story, poetry, essay,— all sorts of things. We'll print what we can and you'll be better for the effort and the experience. Remember this paper is a reflection of the student body as their paper. You make it, not the staff. They just put it together.

From the looks of things we should realize our aim of (1) a new ad building, (2) plant renovation, and (3) acceptance into North Central Association within a few short years. The figures look good.

The campus is truly beautiful this year. The salvia near the tennis courts is more beautiful and large than any I've seen for some time. Fall roses are still in bloom, thanks to God and Mr. Barker. Astors and marigolds are abundant around the library to say nothing of the apple trees loaded with small sour red apples. Other trees don't show the signs of fall yet and still maintain their summer mantle.

Read an interesting old maxim the other day. It is very applicable to college students, so we're dedicating it to you. "It isn't whether you spend your time or not; it is whether you invest it that counts."

Spirit is running high on the campus this year. We note especially the absence of many G. I. students of a year or two ago. The student body is getting younger and somehow definitely more preoccupied with non-academic material. The one thing we do like to see is the unconscious attitude of team work and unity so apparent at Y. C.

FORECAST OF THE WEEK: Y. C. will win its first football game of the year.

WHAT IF!

Upperclassmen weren't mean to freshmen. All the remains of the old ad building were hauled away. Everyone were in bed before two o'clock in Middlebrook. Any assignment were short. Everyone knew everyone else's name. We didn't have so many sore muscles from football practice. Rick had two black eyes instead of only one. Paul Edie could get by one hour without crying. Everyone were satisfied with his schedule. Mail call came more often. Jackie Morton stopped smiling.

"You Lucky People, I'm Back"

by Bill

Good afternoon, readers. By the time your tired, bloodshot, little eyes drop down to this bit of intellectual nonsense you will, if you are a Freshman, be too tired to laugh or, if you are an upperclassman, be too tired from laughing at the Frosh to laugh at this, so just skip it this issue. I'll write next time when you can appreciate it.

What! You are still looking. Well, you sweet, kind knuckle headed dope; haven't you anything to do? Oh, you feel tired, run down, like you had been hit by a truck? Well, don't act the part. As the bug said when he hit the windshield—"that's me all over." Some think it takes nerve to write this and maybe they are right.

Some of the new students, namely frosh, are griping over initiation. Cheer up. As one pin cushion said to the other, "you're stuck." Speaking of jewelry (pins are classed as such) have all new students noticed the "Pancake Jewelry" store. The reason they call it "pancake" is that the prices make you do a Flip-Flop. But cheer up. There is dough in pancakes.

I expect every one has been reading of the S. F. C. peace treaty; that isn't San Francisco Conference, but So Far Cold. One of our senators suggested an interchange of people between Russia and the U. S. to promote better feelings. Stalin wired back that he had OK'ed it and would send his army right over to take back those able to work.

On the sports page the news is on West Point. West Point where young soldiers never pass—they just get kicked out. The charge brought against them was cribbing, which when interpreted means, "take your eyes off my paper, boy! remember what happened to Mac." I hear Mac is having trouble deciding whether he is a Republican or not. I suppose he is afraid he can't wear his trunk and have it too. Anyhow, an elephant never forgets.

I see "glitter Season" is here. That means, "buy me a ring, honey, I haven't any gloves," Man was created to serve his creator, but along came woman and the servant question is still unsettled. Bye now and remember, "Early to bed and early to rise, and your gal will go out with other guys."

Comments On Being Engaged

The period of engagement is greatly overrated. Let me explain: before entering this professed state of bliss, I had several firmly fixed notions. I believed that the engagement period would be one of unsaturated romance, adventure, and intrigue. Diamonds, flowers, love notes, low lights, music . . . that kind of thing. To bind all between a capital letter and a period, here is what I visioned . . . under the spell of moonlight and magnolia were me, alone together, lost in the magic of a breathless night! Oh! brother!

My sisters in engagement can only read this, nod, and weep in silence, but you, the unengaged, listen and learn.

The process of placing a ring on an unsuspecting (?) lady's left hand, third finger, has a strange, but fascinating effect upon our villain, the male. Suddenly, without warning, he becomes victim to a vague and deadly disease. Symptoms are: sudden and unaccountable tiredness, inattention, boredom, and marked absentmindedness.

Many of the things he did do, he no longer does, and many of the things he didn't do he does.

In conversation he often yawns as though unable to keep awake. Occasionally he even interrupts. Your monologues and clever little character sketches are unaccountably quite lost on him.

He may become quite incapable of opening doors. He may suffer from lack of memory, buying Spearment when you prefer Dentyne. He may even go so far as to take you to his favorite Western, knowing they bore you stiff.

He will not sit by you so frequently. He will not talk to you so frequently. He will not listen so frequently. He will not smile so frequently.

Some evening you feel like bowling, you will quite possibly find yourself sitting in your room, while he is out with the boys, or, if he is so kind as to require your presence, you may spend the evening with him snoring, his head in your lap.

All this is very disturbing, not to mention revealing. You may react in nervous panic and become an hysterical, demanding woman. In this case his downward descent will become more apparent. Or you may grow silent, bitter, and introspective. If so, he will speak (when he designs to so favor you) of Margaret and her vivacious personality, a comparison obviously unfavorable. In the library, when you are trying to write a constructively critical composition (such as this one) about him, he may insist on your scratching his back.

When then, in view of all these atrocities, can a woman do to defend herself? She can, of course, refuse to become engaged. But then she would forfeit the privilege of wearing a ring, sharing intimacies with others in her state, and incidentally, the company of the man she so patiently loves. So, this is out. She may run a middle course trying to reform him. Equipment for this little enterprise includes W. C. T. U. enthusiasm and undaunted fortitude. But observation leads one to believe this is a thankless and unending job.

Really, the only remedy is marriage. This won't solve your old problems, but, at least, you'll have so many nice new interesting ones, that you will probably look longingly back on the period of engagement as a state of bliss, which, of course, it is.

Wars may come and wars may go, but a politician never forgets the new sources of revenue that discovered.

After listening to some commencement speeches, we gather that the world is in such terrible shape that nothing can save it except the graduating class.

Life is often a battle of the wits, but some folks are unarmed.

Be Ye Thankful . . .

Three months have passed since many of the freshmen heard what a terribly cruel world they were entering. Now they would no longer be in the protecting hands of the high school faculty. The men were being informed of the coming third world war and the women were finding out just how high prices could go. "There is no hope" people screamed from the house tops just before they leaped into sweet death. "My the world is in a terrible shape, what could there be that I should be thankful for ? ? ?"

Stop, look about you, and think. Did the sun come up this morning? Then be ye thankful for the blessings of nature. Are you not now attending a Christian college with other Christians? Then be ye thankful for those who have made it possible. Do you not have better food, better clothes, and more money than those of a generation before?

The list could go on unendingly, page after page. If we would but stop and think we would find that the reason we tend at times toward the pessimistic side of life is that we have let the devil turn our heads and that is all we can see. We must take time to release our selves from his grip and turn our faces toward the light of Christ. In doing so we will have no trouble in finding the blessings of the hour and we should continually be thankful to God for them.

—Charles Chipman.

We Love Our Coach, But . . .

Pete Madejck, York College's new Irish fullback, came up to me yesterday and I casually asked him how things were going. That was a mistake!

After I wrang the tears out of my soaked shoulder, I gently calmed Peter down. He had a mild case of hysterics, but with some persuasion I managed to draw the heart-rendering story from the sobbing Pete.

"I spent last summer in Kansas," cried Pete, "chasing jack-rabbits off my uncle's tumbleweed farm. I do this by chasing the rabbit until I catch him and then I trot over and throw him into the neighbors' south forty. I thought I could run. Huh! This guy, Coach Haight, is a killer. He has "wind sprints" that would tire an antelope! He keeps us running up and down the field like we were on the business end of a yo-yo tournament. He won't let us stop until the first eight men drop from exhaustion." He moaned, "And that aint . . ."

"Now, simmer down Pete," I began.

"As I was saying," he started again, giving me a wounded look, "You ought to see the push-ups! Oi-Yoi-Uoi! I lift weights up to 200 pounds over my head and not even breathe hard, but he gets us started on pushups for fifteen or twenty minutes and then the payoff. He breathes sweetly to us." Only thirty-five more of those and you can quit. Then you can all dive!"

We are very sorry to end this here, but suddenly he gave a wild whoop and ran for the gym; so we will see you on the field, Pete.

Names in the News . . .

by the Sports Editor

We all like to know who does what and why, so here are some of the boys to watch. I am merely advancing my own opinion and I expect lots of criticism. I hope there are many new faces that make themselves very well known in the near future and this column will try to keep you posted.

At the ends we have last year's regulars Bud Glahn and California Thorson. Both these boys have lettered but lots of competition is expected by Ellison, McQueen, and Woolery. These three boys are new but they work hard and I expect them to come along.

Going deeper into the line at the guard spots we have been seeing competition among John Coover, Cecil Walker, and Art Speece. All these boys lack experience and size but they are working very hard.

John Mann is back in the harness and is expected to play lots of tackle along with Martin Smith and John Bergland. All three of these boys lettered and much is expected from each.

In the backfield you can look for the unexpected. We are using a slightly different offense and various changes may be expected. At the vital quarter Tom Stone and Don Megill seem to be the most outstanding at this time. Both are new faces with Stone having an edge on experience. At the halves Dave Miller and Frank Wooters, both lettermen, are the familiar faces but Bob Miller, Vic Suazo and Rick Bode look very good and are expected to make a very strong bid for starting assignments. The fullback spot is not too sure with "Chauncy" Paine and Gale Cook running very hard.

As to the boy who is to get the play started we have returning lettermen center Norm Allen and Pete Niedl as the two outstanding prospects.

If hard work will earn letters then the above mentioned will see only part time duty as every one is working very hard. As I have said before we have very few sixty minute men so watch close and yell loud.

Pep Squad in Tryout Session

The past week has been a busy week for those who attended cheerleading try-out meetings.

Two meetings were held with the attendance of nine students present at the first meeting. About fifteen students were present at the second meeting.

Ten persons will be chosen by the student body in an election to determine the final cheerleaders. Five of the cheerleaders will be on the A squad, the other five on the B squad. Both A and B squad are expected to practice together. Only three absents will be permitted.

James Potter, senior, Peetz, Colo., was in charge of the practices. He was assisted by Betty Robinett, sophomore, Riverdale, Calif. and Jo Anne Seymour, sophomore, Benedict.

Game of Life

by B. W.

It is time for fall and football, All American, All conference, All state.

These titles will be placed on someone, It matters not whether small or great. The point is, he scored a touchdown, Or made the headlines in some other way, But remember there are ten others. And all are needed, each play.

The game of life is a contest Just like this sport in fall, And each of us are contestants We'd all like to carry the ball. But some one must do the blocking Some must be substitutes, For games are won by blocking And blockers are hard to recruit.

Kahlil Gibran: "As each stands alone in God's knowledge, so must each stand alone in his knowledge of God, and in his understanding of the earth."

Here is a sample of the 1951 football team which consists of 33 members: 11 freshmen, 9 sophomores, 4 juniors, and 9 seniors. This is the team that will carry the flag for York College in 8 games this year.

York Fields Light Team; Early Season Competition Heavy

A typical scene on the football field. Coach Haight in center instructing squad in fundamentals.

TEAM IN TOP PHYSICAL SHAPE

York is anticipating a fine football season this year. While the team is of the lightest in the conference, there are nine letter men returning. Due to Coach Haight's active program, the squad will be in top physical shape by the starting whistle. The team has worked hard and long and will continue to throughout the season.

Mental Attitude Excellent

The coach is still much interested in new candidates, but they will have to love to play football. He is well satisfied with the mental attitude of all who are out and likes their willingness to work hard and their fine spirit.

Coach Haight has indicated definitely his stand. "This is a new and different year and we are not looking at past records. Each man must prove himself, and past games are out the window. There are eleven positions to be filled and as we have very few sixty minute men, bench riders should be scarce. A fresh rookie with a will to win is far more desirable than a tired regular."

The Pennant Race

by Keith Megill

As a new school year starts the pennant races in the major leagues are coming to an end. They have been very close races in the last few years and this year is no exception. Many students on the campus I have found are baseball fans and are following the games closely. Let us take a look at the torrid American league. The New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians have been trading first place from one day to another in the last few weeks and everyone is following that chase. The Indians with the terrific pitching of Bob Feller, Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia are battling the old pros of Dimaggio, Mize, Rizzuto, Berra, Raschi, Lopaz, and such new stars as McDougald, and Mantle. The Boston Red Sox always powerful, but never able to come through are in third place 3½ games behind at this writing. The surprising and speedy Chicago White Sox with rookie of the year Orestes Minoso leading the way are in fourth. The disappointing Detroit Tigers are perched on top of the second division. The pesky Philadelphia A's are in 6th. The Washington Senators hold down 7th place. In last place is Ned Garver and Co., the St. Louis Browns.

Turning to the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers led by Hodges, Robinson, Campanella, Newcombe, Roe, Pafko, and Snider are all but into the world series. The sensational 16 game winning streak of the New York Giants will not be enough to catch the high-flying Dodgers.

In third place the oldest pitching staff in the league and the brightest pitching rookie have kept the Cardinals from falling any farther. Stan "the man" Musial will win his sixth batting title. The Boston Braves, with 20-game winner Warren Spahn should finish fourth. The Ex-champs Philadelphia Phils, disappointment of the league, are finishing on top of the second division. The battle for the cellar is raging between the Reds, Cubs, and Pirates. Of course, I have to say the Cubs are about out of the race, but I hope to see them in sixth at least. For my prediction for the outcome I pick Brooklyn and Cleveland to be playing in the World Series come Oct. 3. The starting pitcher will be Feller against Roe.

W.A.A. Delegates To Convention

Ardith Wiebe, sophomore, Aurora, Nebraska, and Joan Heidrick, freshman, Virgil, Kansas, were elected as official delegates to the W. A. A. convention to be held in Lincoln, October 5 and 6 at the first meeting of this organization held Tuesday, September 18 in the college gym.

Several other members are planning to attend the Play Day on October 6, which is the open meeting and fun-fest of the convention.

Following the above business meeting, the group split into two groups labeled "freshmen" and "upper classmen" and practiced basketball in anticipation of the Homecoming events.

Panther Club Votes Uniforms To Pep Squad

It was voted at the first meeting of the Panther Club of York College to purchase new cheer leader uniforms for the pep squad. A committee of James Potter, senior, Peetz, Colorado, and Ora Lee Lewis, sophomore, Concordia, Kansas, was appointed to investigate the measure and report to the club in the near future.

At the same meeting officers were elected for the new year and Jo Anne Seymour, sophomore, of Benedict was elected president of this organization which exists to promote school spirit and pep activity.

Members are elected from the four classes, and the presidents of the Pantin' Panthers and the Pantherettes act as ex-officio members. These members are: John Bergland, senior, Great Falls, Montana; Carol Denton, senior, York; Bill Ellison, junior, Waco; Manita Mattison, junior, Salina, Kansas; Bill Wortman, sophomore, Woodland, Washington; Jo Anne Seymour, sophomore, Benedict; David Lee Morris, freshman, Dawson; and Marjorie Hall, freshman, Wichita, Kansas. Miss Helen Jo Polk and Mr. Myron Holm are club sponsors.

Ora Lee Lewis and Herb Kamm represented Pantin' Panthers and Pantherettes until elections occur in the respective organizations.

Recruits Initiate Club's Activity

Life Work Recruits held its first meeting Monday, September 17, from 7:00 to 8:00 P. M. in the Hulitt Hall reception room.

Barbara Bergland, chorus leader, led the group in several choruses as the opener.

Vice-president, Ed Schrader, then presided over the business meeting in absence of the president, Darrell Anderson.

John Bergland had charge of the program which was begun by a song from the quartet which includes, Norman Allen, Riverdale, Calif., Larry Thorsen, La Mesa, Calif., John Coover, York, and Bob Miller, Cheyenne, Wyo. They sang, "Gonna Have a Little Talk with Jesus." Larry Thorsen then brought the message as he told the group what Life Work Recruits meant to him.

The meeting closed with the singing of "Spirit of the Living God."

A Letter . . .

Dear Editor:

My arrival on the campus at Y. C. this year was a very pleasant one, because of the beautiful green trees, the bright green lawns and the beautiful flowers. The surroundings were a greeting of beauty to my eyes until I saw the remains of the "Old Main." Looking at the rubble I had a very let down feeling inside. It spoiled the feeling of welcome and I wanted to do something about it because I know others share my feelings. I began to talk to some of the other students about it and found they wanted to do something about it too. After our discussions we wondered why we couldn't have a student clean up holiday and clean up our lovely campus. I understand there are many old memories from the building, but a new building is to be built and there will be more wonderful Christian memories to come. I hope something can be done about the rubble in the near future.

An Ambitious Student.

(Ed. Note: We hope the faculty and administration will take this student's opinions and ideas to heart and think about this matter seriously for we believe this to be a representative attitude among the student body. Two hundred students and a half dozen trucks could do a lot to the "pile" in one day.)

Recent Weddings Dot Calendar

The month of August and the first two days of September seemed to be a popular time for five of the college couples to choose as their wedding dates. The first couple to take the nuptial vows were Phyllis Rabuck x53, Coon Rapids, Iowa, and Jack Mathis, '51, Parsons, Kansas. They were married August 22, in Iowa and will make their home in Dayton, Ohio, where Jack is attending Bonebrake Seminary.

Barbara Benfer, Robinson, Kansas, and John Bergland, Great Falls, Montana, were married August 23 in Robinson, Kansas. They are both seniors at college and are making their home on the campus.

Opal Kennedy '50, Colfax, Washington and Max Garcia, Ojo Caliente, New Mexico, were married August 27, at the college church. They are making their home here in York while Max is finishing his senior year in college.

Marjorie Teinert, York, Nebraska, and Les Herron x49, York, Nebraska were married September 1, at the Waco Methodist church. They are making their home on the campus where Marjorie is a senior in college.

Party Honors Campus Arrivals

Miss Zelda Wakelin, professor of modern languages and Mrs. James Koontz recently honored three additions to York College campus. Those honored were: Mrs. Clarence Attig, whose husband is a new member of the faculty in the history department, the Attigs are former residents of Albuquerque, New Mexico; Mrs. W. Mark Haight, wife of the coach; and Mrs. Mabel Thomas, manager of the bookstore and assistant to Mrs. Regenos at Middlebrook Hall.

Women members of the faculty were invited and faculty members wives. Mrs. D. E. Weidler presided over the afternoon refreshments.

Violet Salazar, Alcalde, New Mexico, and Darrell Anderson, Laurel, Nebraska, were united in marriage Sept., 2 at Santa Fe, New Mexico. They are making their home in Phillips, Nebraska, where Darrell is preaching. They are both attending college as juniors.

Dean Ashcraft: "What civilization, self-bewitched, has destroyed, civilization, God-bewitched, will restore . . . I don't want to be just good. (I get tired of that.) I want to stand with God against darkness!"

Dr. Weidler: "We live in this knife edge of now."

J. Bergland Takes Asst. Pastorate

A new service to the congregation of the college church, especially those of the high school and college age, has recently been added. The pastor will from now on have an assistant to aid in the duties connected with the charge. The assistant pastor will make hospital calls and go with the pastor to visit members of the local church. Later on he will have full charge of the evening services. Also he will help supervise the young people's groups.

The first person to have the honor of filling this position is John Bergland, a senior from Montana. Along with this new task he has taken the responsibility of a home. His wife is also a senior from the neighboring state of Kansas. They are now making their home in one of the college huts on the campus. John is also serving as full time pastor to the Wayland, Nebr. church.

Last year he was editor of the Marathon. He is now working to complete his major which is in the field of speech. Along with all of his subjects he had time last year to practice five days a week in Mr. Koontz's traveling choir. Next fall he plans to enter Bonebrake Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. There he will finish his formal training and be ordained as a minister of the gospel.

DORM DITTIES

Rings on her fingers and bells on her toes! Yes, this year is really getting off to a good start to judge from the diamonds which have suddenly sprouted from the hands of several girls on Y. C. campus. This column predicts that the water bill for Middlebrook hall will go sky high.

Mabel Brandenburg, senior, Russell, Kans., received the dubious honor of being the first to be showered this year. Others predicted to be showered by the time this paper goes to print, in order of engagement, are Jackie Morton, freshman, Russell, Kans., engaged to Norman Tibbetts, Norton, Kan., Jo Anne Seymour, sophomore, Benedict, engaged to Willard Bolton, Benedict, and Rosemary Jordan, sophomore, Beloit, Kans., engaged to Harold French, senior, Wichita, Kans. Mabel Brandenburg is engaged to Les Hazen, senior, The Dalles, Oregon.

The first Middlebrook house meeting was held Tuesday, September 11, at 10:00 P. M. Old and new rules and regulations were read and discussed. Floor representatives appointed were: for second floor—Janice Coleman, sophomore, Riverdale, Calif., Ora Lee Lewis, sophomore, Concordia, Kans., Pat Taylor, senior, Lincoln, and Caroline Walkup, sophomore, York, are representing third.

SENIORITIES

This is the first in a series of seniorities to be printed in the coming issues of the SANDBURR. Each seniority will be accompanied by a picture. This is an attempt to acquaint the readers with each senior of 1952.

Mabel Brandenburg

Mabel Brandberg, senior from Russell, Kansas, is an English major. Active in Y. W. she is the big and little sister chairman. She is also a member of PALS and has been in the past, secretary to Dr. Savery. Mabel is secretary of the senior class. She plans to teach after graduation. She has another big interest, which is also a member of the senior class Les Hazen, The Dalles, Oregon. Les and Mabel were engaged just before the opening of the school year.
