FAMILY DEVELOPMENT MINISTER

A full-time ministry position responsible for supporting and resourcing the spiritual development of families with children in the home. This person will help our families to follow Jesus by directing their own gifts, church resources, additional staff, and volunteers in a unified approach throughout the events and programs offered to our families. They will work to help families of young children and teens become invested participants of the ministry to families throughout their child rearing years.

The Family Development Minister will supervise and work within youth and children's programming; however, they are not expected to be both a full-time children's minister and a full-time youth minister. Rather, they are to employ an integrated approach that involves families with children of all ages in some programming, while equipping parents to initiate and lead other age-appropriate programming. The Family Development Minister will have discretion to divide budget funds as they see most beneficial.

Reidland Church is a loving church that is very supportive of its ministers. Collaboration among shepherds, staff, and members is essential. Minister's voices are considered vital and equally valued within the leadership. Flexibility is both given and expected. Funds are available for continued education. Sabbath, Sabbatical, comp time, vacation, and self-care are both provided and encouraged.

If the applying candidate is gifted in areas such as worship, preaching, missions, or administration they will be welcome to explore and develop their abilities in such areas. Resources are available to support the minister's development in these areas.

As a member of the ministry team the Family Development Minister should be willing to jump in and help as unforeseen needs arise. This may include such duties as assist in filling of worship service needs (prayer, communion, etc.), event set up and prep, preaching on occasion, and other similar tasks.

All candidates are welcome to apply. 4-6+ years of experience in a ministry or equivalent context is preferred by not required.
