Y. W. C. A. HOLDS PIE SOCIAL AS A MEANS FOR RAISING FUNDS

Popularity Contest and One Act Play Are Features of the Evening.

A pie social for the purpose of raising funds was held in the gymnasium on the evening of Nov. 6 under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. However, pies were not the only attraction. A one act play, "Six to One," by Frances A. Matthews, was presented by members of the Histrionic Club, under the direction of Miss Alma Tress Lundman, and a popularity contest was also conducted.

Those appearing in the comedy were:

Aunt Dodge ----- Whrelda Wrye
Gladys Quincey --- Lillian Gassman
Nina Crosby ----- Thelma Pollard
Maud Lawton ----- Neva Fellman
Ethel Davis ----- Ina Culbertson
Aline ----- Frances Michael
Eliot ----- Rex Hays

The scene of the play was in the living room of the home of Mrs. Dodge who had five nieces visiting her and a nephew coming. When the nephew arrived he made himself interesting by proposing to each of the girls but finally contented himself with one.

An important feature of the evening was the popularity contest held for the purpose of selecting the most popular man and woman of the college. Each person present was allowed to cast as many votes as he wished at the rate of one cent a vote. As a result of this contest Bessie James was chosen as the most popular woman and Rex Hays as the most popular man.

Attention was then turned to the business of obtaining the pies. Teresa Lou Connely acting as auctioneer sold the women's shadows to the men, instead of selling the pies, as is the usual procedure at such affairs, the man eating with the lady whose shadow he had bought.

About sixty people were in attendance at the social and according to Ermina Hoyle, president of the Y. W. C. A., it was a success financially as well as socially.

PICTURES OF VARIOUS STUDENT GROUPS TAKEN

To Be Used in Several Forms of Publicity Material.

Pictures of six different groups of students who come from various parts of the state and from other states and sections of the country were taken following chapel Nov. 2. The purpose in taking these pictures was for use on posters and in other forms of publicity material for the college, and for use in church publications.

It was found that the Kansas group was the largest, having in it seventeen students and three faculty members. They are as follows: Harriett Longenecker, Sara Slavens, Loraine Watts, Dean Kimball, Evelyn McKain, Milan Lambert, Vera Jones, Eleanor Hubbell, Arthur Anadon, Bertha Schnieber, Marie Schnleber, Odessa Green, Vernie Buttermore, Marian Hill, Pres. J. R. Overmiller and Prof. Earl Doty. Prof. Ray Hill, Alma Walker, Robert Davis and Wesley Robbins also belong to this group but were not in the picture.

DR. R. W. GAMMON TALKS TO MEMBERS OF Y. W. C. A.

Discusses Problems Which the Modern Woman Is Facing.

Dr. R. W. Gammon, of Chicago, Associate Secretary of the Congregational Educational Society, spoke to the Y. W. C. A. members at their regular meeting on the morning of Oct. 27 on some of the problems which modern women are facing.

"Perhaps it is just as difficult for women to live their own lives in these days as it was in the olden days when the woman was a slave to her husband," stated Dr. Gammon. Women in business have a difficult role to play, he said, because of the many demands upon them.

In discussing the divorce problem, Dr. Gammon stated that he would put seventy-five per cent. of the blame upon the man.

"Keep your health, round out your intellectual and spiritual life, steer clear of narrowness and self-centeredness, and never give up your personality," the speaker advised.

Dr. Gammon came to York to speak at the sessions of the Nebraska Council of Christian Education held in the United Brethren church Oct. 26-28.

SANDBURR CONTEST

In accordance with a custom established several years ago THE SANDBURR is again offering prizes for the best short story and the best essay submitted in a contest open to all students in college with the exception of members of THE SANDBURR staff. Prizes for the winners will be awarded in chapel on the morning when the Christmas edition appears. The prizes will be worth working for and it is hoped that a great many students will enter the contest.

All entries must be in the hands of the judges not later than 4:30 p. m., December 3 to allow ample time for going over them. The stories should be limited to not more than 1200 words and the essays to no more than 500 words. Judges for the contest will be Mrs. J. C. Morgan, Mrs. Earl Doty, and the editor of THE SANDBURR. COURT SESSION HELD BY STUDENT COUNCIL

Eight Freshmen Found Guilty of Violating Rules.

Many of the freshmen have failed to comply with the Student Council rules and have been sentenced to a variety of punishments.

Lynn Hewitt was charged with failure to produce his green cap while on the campus. The sentence was to consume the contents of the bottle (which proved to be milk) through the nipple during the remainder of the court session and to raise the bottle to his lips each time he encountered a member of the Student Council.

Lyndle Moore was charged with sitting on the steps of a college building. He was found guilty and sentenced to the same penalty as Hewitt with the exception that he was given a quart bottle instead of a pint. Lyndle lost the left half of his mustache as a result of a later court sentence.

Edward Medina was charged with failure to show his green cap. He was found guilty and sentenced to wear torn trouser legs rolled above his knees for the remainder of the day.

Raymond Haynie, Fred Clinging-smith, Howard May, Jack Graham, and Viola Wood are among the other victims who were found guilty and sentenced.

Y. M. C. A. OPENS SERIES OF DISARMAMENT TALKS

The first of a series of three discussions on disarmament was presented by Professor Warren Baller at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting on Nov. 3.

Mr. Baller pointed out that the time has arrived when it takes as much intelligence as courage to be Christian. He showed how some of the best college men of both Germany and of the Allies were destroyed in the last great conflict. He also illustrated how useless a standing army is to aid a private citizen in obtaining his rights, "and," he asked, "Of what good is an army if private aid cannot be secured from it?"

HISTRONIC CLUB PLAY TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY

First Production of Season to Be at York Theater.

The comedy drama "Quality Street" which is to be given by the York College Players at the York theatre Nov. 12, is one of the most delightful of the plays written by James M. Barrie. Classed with the best of present day playwrights, Barrie has received many flattering tributes from the press. The following excerpt is from the New York Times:

"Barrie opens the door of fancy so seldom set ajar. There lies his peculiar mastery. A tender, strange, exquisitely human fancy, half child, half spirit, that lends you its own or heavy heart, to rainbow wings and lifts you, heavy foot heights. You cannot resist him, or, if you do, there is nothing but pity to give you, as some one who has never known youth and, worse, never will know it. And by this we do not mean youth of time, but its finer, rarer reality, that quality, indomitable and bright, and free, that lies at the heart of all high enterprise and generous daring, and without which this old world would have dried up and withered away ages since."

The cast has been practicing daily for the last few weeks and according to Miss Alma Tress Lundman, the coach, each character is carrying his part exceptionally well and she is sure the audience will be more than pleased with the play.

JUNIOR CLASS PRESENTS UNIQUE CHAPEL PROGRAM

Portray Famous Art Productions in Tableau Form.

Pictures painted by some of the world's greatest artists were presented in tableau form by members of the junior class at the chapel hour on Nov. 3. A member of the class explained each painting as it was portrayed, telling something of the artist's life and works.

The picture, "The Infant Samuel," by Sir Joshua Reynolds, was portrayed by Julia Wilson, Whrelda Wrye giving the introduction. "The Angelus," painted by Jean Francois Millet, was presented by Irene White and Nathan Gutschow after Kenneth Jenkins had given a historical sketch of the picture.

Dorothea Hintz gave the explanation of the picture, "The Song of the Lark", one of Jules Breton's masterpieces, the character being portrayed by Wilma Heers.

Carrie Sauer and Jennie Farnham posed for the picture "Madam Le Brun and Her Daughter," painted from a mirrored reflection by Madame Le Brun herself. John Boren announced the presentation.

SENIORS ENTERTAIN JUNIORS AT ANNUAL HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Empty House in Charleston Is Scene of Ghostly Revels of Upperclassmen.

The members of the junior class were entertained Oct. 31 at the annual Hallowe'en party given by the seniors. The party was held in an empty house in the village of Charleston, about eight miles south-west of York.

Each senior was responsible for bringing two juniors to the gymnasium where directions were given for a treasure hunt. The hunt terminated at an old dilapidated house about a mile north of Charleston where Margaret Payne was successful in finding the treasure, a large sack of peanuts. From there the group proceeded to the place of the party.

Upon their arrival, the juniors were blindfolded and led through various buildings, under fences, over bed springs, and through trap doors. Following this, games appropriate to the occasion were played.

The house was decorated with orange and black streamers, skeletons, witches, and other Hallowe'en decorations. Paper hats for all the party added to the festive air of the occasion.

Late in the evening another carload of the merry-makers arrived, having had some difficulty in escaping from curious underclassmen who were bent upon learning the location of the party.

To get partners for the evening, the men were asked to hunt for candy kisses which had been hidden in the various rooms. Later, handkerchiefs belonging to each of the girls were auctioned off, to be paid for in kisses. Men not having enough candy kisses to cancel their debt were supposed to pay with the real thing.

A Hallowe'en lunch was served at the close of the evening.

DISARMAMENT DISCUSSED

AT MEETING OF Y. W. C. A.

"Disarmament" was the theme for discussion at the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Nov. 3.

Group singing was led by Jeanette Bisset. Bernice Johnson gave the reading, "The Death Disk", by Mark Twain.

The discussion was led by Teresa Lou Connely. The main topics discussed were: Do arms cause war? and, Should the United States join the World Court? It was decided that the way to bring about disarmament was for the youth of the land to set disarmament as their goal.

The meeting was closed with prayer by the president.

York College—York College!

WELCOME, ALUMNI!

Who is there among us who doesn't like to get back home once in a while, meet old friends and make new ones, re-visit old familiar haunts in which we have passed many happy hours and participate once more in activities which occupied much of our time and attention in years gone by? No one of us, we feel sure.

Then, start making your plans at once to attend the annual Homecoming program at York College on November 21 when the Panthers will meet the Midland Warriors on the York gridiron as the main feature of the day. Be here in time for the pep rally at eleven o'clock if possible and see if the present student body isn't the "peppiest" bunch you've seen since you were in school here.

The Panther Club and officials of the Alumni Association are working hard to make this a big day, so don't miss being here. York College welcomes you home!

"LEST WE FORGET"

The anniversary of the signing of the Armistice brings to us memories of the relief brought by peace. May we not forget the dark and painful days which we struggled through as we remember the hilarious day when peace was proclaimed.

For peace was not won easily, nor with small loss. We must teach ourselves to think of the days preceding the victory, and look ahead as we count the price we, and the generations to come, shall pay.

It should revive our memories, it should make each of us a strong advocate of peace, to read a bit of the speech President Harding made in May, 1921, when the first large cargo of bodies was landed at Hoboken Pier:

"These dead know nothing of our ceremony today. They sense nothing of the sentiment and tenderness which brings their wasted bodies to the homeland for burial. And yet . . . never a death, but somewhere a new life. Never a sacrifice, but somewhere an atonement. Never a service, but somewhere and somehow an achievement. These have served, which is the supreme inspiration in living. They have earned everlasting gratitude, which is the supreme solace in dying . . . They gave all which man and woman can give. We shall give our most and best if we make certain that they did not die in vain. We shall not forget, no matter whether they lie amid the sweetness and bloom of the homeland or sleep in the soil they crimsoned. Our mindfulness, our gratitude, our reverence, shall be in the preserved Republic, the maintained liberties and the supreme justice for which they died.

"I find a hundred thousand sorrows touching my heart, and there is ringing in my ears like an admonition eternal, an insistent call: 'It must not be again!' God grant that it will not be, and let a practical people join in cooperation with God to the end that it shall not be."—B. J. Y. C.

THANKS! COME AGAIN!

The editor wishes to thank those who have put news items or jokes in THE SANDBURR box in the lower hall of the Administration Building. Reporters are always on the lookout for news but it is impossible for them to learn of every event which takes place. We will especially welcome items about humorous happenings in the classroom or in any student gathering, and news items about students or alumni.

Original contributions for THE SANDBURR should be signed, as it is contrary to the policy of the paper to print anonymous material. If the writer of the poem who styles himself "A Kollege Kid" will make known his identity to the editor, we may be able to use his poem although the name need not be published.

Y. C. CORRECT SPEECH.

"You ain't," "he don't," "I seen," "they was"! How often do you hear such expressions as the above every day, or worse still, how many times are you guilty of using them?

It seems alarming that so many college students who will soon be going out to help shape the speech habits of children, or to take their places in communities as educated people are careless enough to disregard the rules of correct speech.

Some people have the idea it is rather "sisterly" to always speak correctly, and others don't know the right forms from the wrong; still others seem to think it saves time to murder the King's English; at least they don't take the time to do it justice. But for the most part the cause is just-carelessness, and nothing could be more profitable to York College than a "correct speech" campaign. —D. S.

President's Message

With the splendid strides of the work of Christian education in the entire district now related to York College, friends of the institution are anticipating with much hope that which the days in the near future will bring forth. I want briefly to call the attention of friends of York College, both young and old, to outstanding opportunities of investment in York College.

First and foremost is her endowment which must be increased within the next few years to a minimum of $500,000. It is confidently hoped that many friends will make large investments in this fund which will perpetuate the work of the institution for many years to come. York College is growing; hence facilities are becoming limited.

The second early need is a science building which will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000 equipped. The next need is a men's dormitory which will cost in the neighborhood of $70,000. It is confidently hoped and, indeed, anticipated that certain friends of York College interested in the work of Christian education will make possible these buildings as a memorial to themselves or to friends.

The alumni of York College are doing a marvelous work in constantly strengthening the alumni library which has been greatly added to through the merging of the library of Kansas City University with the York College library. This comes through the gracious interest of the Board of Trustees of Kansas City University and the people of that district. The alumni association is handling the cost of transfer and other costs involved. The near future is going to call for an additional wing to the present library building which will furnish an adequate book room and leave the present library floor entirely for reading and study purposes. It is hoped that some alumnus or former student of York College will sponsor the meeting of this need.

As we stir the minds of our people along these lines the entire constituency will give its loyal attention to the creation of Booster Clubs through which much of our operating expense will be provided.

J. R. Overmiller.

PRESIDENT HOOVER TO BROADCAST

The Liberal Arts College Movement in the United States is making marked progress at the present time. This is indicated by the fact of a national broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's chain system on Saturday, November 14, from 8:00 to 8:30 p. m. Central Standard Time.

President Hoover will head the broadcast by speaking at this period. Other associated speakers will be Dr. Robert L. Kelly, Executive Secretary of the Association of American Colleges and of the Council of Church Boards of Education; President A. N. Ward of Western Maryland College; Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times; and Mrs. Thomas J. Preston.

The purpose of this nation wide program is to present to the American public the value of the Liberal Arts Colleges and their place in the educational, social, and economic life of the country.

This program will come to the west district over Station WOW of Omaha. It will be preceded by local broadcasts from 7:30 to 8:00 over stations KFAB and KGBZ. It is hoped that every friend in York College will tune in to get the messages of these national leaders.

There are many popular misconceptions of the Liberal Arts College and its relationship to present day educational and social problems. The facts indicate to us, however, that more resources are invested in Liberal Arts Colleges than at any time in the past years. These institutions are adapting themselves very rapidly to the demands of the day. In some cases whole college plants have been rebuilt in the last ten years. Many adjustments to social conditions have been and are being made through consolidations. It is generally recognized that some localities will be better served educationally by combining two or more weak colleges into one strong college. Educational procedures are being revamped in accordance with modern ideas. While the most distinctive thing about the church related college is its religion, yet these institutions show remarkable capacities for adjustment, for diversity of type, and for alertness to meet the needs of the hour.

MY COLLEGE

There is a little red and white enameled pin which my dad always wears in the lapel of his coat and of which he is very proud. It is the symbol of a letter-man of the University of Nebraska. The memory of the school, its professors, its alumni and its spirit are dear to him, and he is for the University of Nebraska one hundred per cent.

That is how I want to regard my college. We are proud of the state we live in. We are proud to be known as citizens of the world's foremost country, the United States. Why need we wait until later years to feel the pride of belonging to our chosen college? Why should we not realize now that York College, its instructors, its students, its traditions, are to become dear to us as we become older and as we think longingly of the joys of our student days?

We go to college to make the most of its opportunities. Can we do this when college means no more to us than a place to study books, to learn uninteresting subjects, or to go simply because every one else does? I believe college offers more than that. I want college to be a factor in my life, I want to point to York College as I would identify my father and say, "That's my college." I am proud of my town, my father and mother, and my native state of Nebraska. Should I ignore my school which influences my life as much as any other one cause? No. May my college become My College with the honor and reverence due it.—J. G.

DEPARTMENT DOINGS.

The women of the physical education classes are working on tumbling, pyramid building, basketball and volleyball. A sufficient number of women turned out for the women's swimming class at the Y. M. C. A. to justify the continuance of the class this fall.

Mrs. J. A. Glauque, head of the Art department, has on exhibition in her studio an interesting display of materials which will easily make up into lovely Christmas gifts. Any student desiring to make use of such materials should see Mrs. Glauque.

Five members of the Expression department presented a short program in chapel Oct. 30. The numbers given were as follows: Reading, "The Selfish Giant," by Oscar Wilde, Evelyn Dixon; Talk, "Kindness to Birds and Animals," Loraine Watts; Discussion of "Prohibition," Teresa Lou Connely; Talk, "My Excellence in the Art of Chair-Breaking," Dean Kimball. Kenneth Jenkins acted as chairman for the program.

A probability curve has been graphed on the blackboard in the mathematics room by Professor Howard Feemster. It is to be used in comparing the standard grading curve followed by the professors of education.

The College Student's Debt

To name all the factors to which a college student is indebted would require much detail, but I shall herein try to enumerate a few of the most important.

The primary or most basic factor, I should say, is the parents. I ask, how many college students come from homes where there are no parents? Perhaps children from such homes have a desire to go to college, but do not have the opportunity. Such a person is, indeed, very unfortunate. And again, what is the parents' aim in sending their children to college? Here is the reason: to have them become familiar with the problems of life and to live life itself. Do our parents send us to college to become educated? If they do, their philosophy of education is certainly wrong. Whether a child will go to college is not so much a matter of whether the child wants to go as it is that his parents want him to go. Thus, it is largely up to the parents to shape the destiny of their children.

The student is also indebted to his friends and neighbors who compose his social environment. The saying that: "education edeth a man but environment maketh him" is certainly true to life. The student's environment may not always be such as will encourage him to go to college, but a girl or boy in this modern era should feel that it is his own benefit to go and that the process of life is incomplete without it.

Is the college itself in any way responsible for making the boy or girl want to attend college? I think that we would all agree that it is, and to a very large extent. Nearly every college sends representative students into the neighboring states, who try to impress upon the minds of their audiences the advantages of attending the college which they represent. The student who has heard one or more such programs is in a very large sense indebted to these students and to their college.

The student is also obliged to the community in which the college is located. One may ask, what has the community to do with the student, but the student knows that these two great social organizations are bound together by one great link—friendship. The student uses the churches and other public organizations of the community not because he is compelled to do so but because of the opportunity of making friends and of making his own life a fuller and better one.

My final thought is on the finances of a college. How many people know where all of the income of a college comes from? Certainly not many. Much of this income is derived from popular subscription, especially in the college's own territory. Another source is the tuition paid by the students who attend that institution. Some people think that operating a college is a money-making proposition and that the tuition provides enough finance to meet the obligations of the school, but this is an entirely erroneous idea. No colleges attempt to make a pecuniary profit, but rather, are often in debt, not because of poor business management but because of the lack of support from those who should and could help just as well as not. To these people outside of the college who are giving aid and show an interest in the work of the college, the student is under a great obligation.

And in conclusion I wish to say that students appreciate the fact that many are following the golden rule: "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them likewise."

Panther Grid Team Loses To Strong Cardinal Eleven

Omaha Munny Team Scores Four Touchdowns and Safety to Win by 26-0 Score.

The Panther football team received their second defeat of the season when they met the strong Omaha Municipal University team on the Omaha field on the afternoon of October 30. The score was 26 to 0.

Both teams were seriously handicapped by the muddy field and the drizzling rain which fell during the entire first half of the game.

The Cardinals began their scoring early in the first quarter when Muth, Panther quarter-back, fumbling the wet ball on an attempted punt was downed behind his own goal line by James, Cardinal end, for a safety which scored two points for Omaha. Later in the same period Egbert, the hard-hitting Cardinal full-back, scored a touchdown on an off-tackle plunge from the eight yard line. The try for point failed and the score at the end of the first quarter was Omaha 8, York 0.

In the second quarter Huff, quarter-back, and Fisher, half-back, each scored a touchdown. Huff scored on an eight yard run and Fisher made a fifty-one yard run for his counter. Both trials for the extra point failed leaving the score 20 to 0 at the end of the half.

During the second half the Panther defense strengthened considerably and the Cardinals were able to score but one touchdown which was made after a spectacular run of sixty yards by Egbert in the third quarter.

The most serious scoring threat made by the Panthers was late in the second quarter when Hersey attempted a place kick from the thirty yard line. The kick was wide only by inches.

The work of Lewis, Hersey, and Muth looked best for York, while Egbert and Huff were outstanding for Omaha.

UPPERCLASSMEN DEFEAT FROSH IN VOLLEYBALL

Haner and Houser Are Captains For Respective Teams.

The upper class girls won over the freshman girls in the annual volleyball match which is held each fall, by winning three consecutive games. This is the first of the three contests in which the freshmen are pitted against the upperclassmen.

The representatives of the three upper classes swamped the freshies by making a total of 45 points to their opponents' 9 points in the three games played.

At the beginning of the first game the freshmen took the lead by a few points, but as the game progressed they were soon outclassed by the consistent playing of the upperclassmen. The other two game were walkaways for the upper class girls, the freshmen scoring only 4 more points. At the end of the series the score in games stood: Upperclassmen, 3; Freshmen, 0.

Jean Haner acted as captain for the upperclassmen, while Evelyn Houser held that position on the freshman team.

The lineup:

Freshmen	Upperclassmen
Burch	Hoyle
Ronne	Oliver
Burkey	J. Spore
B. Schnieber	Hill
Robson	Ramsey
Duncan	Mohler
Kelly	Haner (Capt.)
Riggs	Gilmore
Houser (Capt.)	Jones
Warren	James
Westwood	R. Spore
Babson

This is the first in a series of three contests to be held between freshmen and upperclassmen to decide whether the freshmen shall wear their green caps until Christmas or discard them at Thanksgiving. The freshmen must win two of the three contests. The other events will be a tug-of-war and a football game. The tug-of-war is scheduled for Nov. 16 and the date for the football game has not yet been decided.

MAURICE BROOKHART

Maurice Brookhart who plays tackle on the Panther team was chosen game captain for the Omaha-York game. He is a junior and is playing his third year of college football.

AN IDEAL FOOTBALL PLAYER.

Although there are many fine football players in the country, none is ideal. The ideal football player must be fast, strong, smart, aggressive, brave, and in love with the game. Every good player loves it or he would not be willing to make the necessary sacrifice of time, or be willing to risk himself in such a rough contest. His rewards are pleasure and glory. Of course, too, it develops his body, his character, and even his mind.

Every year an All-American team is selected. This team is made up of players from various institutions who are believed by experts to be the best for their respective positions in the country. These players come very close to the ideal. Hugh Rhea, of Nebraska, was selected last year, when a junior, and now when we see him in action we expect to see a perfect player for his position. Naturally we are disappointed, for although he plays especially well on most plays, sometimes he does not get his man, or is blocked completely out of the play. If a fellow makes All-American in his junior year it is very hard for him to repeat because he is so closely watched that every bad play is noticed. Rhea is good, not ideal—there could not be an ideal player.

Such a player would be fast and powerful, shifty and tricky. He must do what the opponent does not expect and change his attack. He must think in a pinch and be so aggressive that he will have the jump on the opponent. He must be able to stand hard knocks and play so hard and viciously that the opponent becomes bewildered. He will practice until he becomes so skilled that every play becomes second nature to him.—H. B. M.

REV. F. I. FINCH TALKS TO Y. M. ON "GROUP THINKING"

"Group thinking is one of the greatest methods of developing thought" was the statement made by the Rev. Frank Finch of Grand Island who addressed the Y. M. C. A. on the morning of Oct. 27. Sixty-five members were in attendance.

"Group discussion is not just talk, not just rearrangement of prejudices, nor a trick employed by a leader for the mere purpose of getting a framework around which he can carry out his ideas," he said.

"Three essential points are involved," he declared. "The problem must be clearly presented to the group; all of the facts involved must be obtained; and a definite objective must be reached. Group thinking is an instrument to bring about Christian Enterprises," said Mr. Finch.
