

President Weidler Reviews Purpose, Aims of Annual Education Day

Date Set This Year
Is February 9

The United Brethren Church in common with the other great religious bodies of the nation sets apart one Sunday each year for the purpose of re-thinking the relationships of church and school. Sunday, February 9, 1941, has been designated Education Day when the whole educational task of the church will receive emphasis with special consideration of the place of York College in the life of the denomination. Many educational functions formerly the responsibility of the church are now performed by other agencies. All the denominational bodies, however, have reserved to themselves the duty of giving a large portion of the higher education opportunities of the nation.

York College has been serving her constituency for over fifty years. Five hundred and twenty-nine students have graduated from her courses. Literally thousands besides have been enriched by her teaching, and inspired by her spirit.

That part of the United Brethren Church responsible directly for York College consists of 52,000 members of 400 churches composing the six conferences of the Southwest Episcopal Area. These 400 churches are served by 250

Students Tell Why They Came to York

Nebraska Conference Representative Says:

What have you gained from your years at York College? Because this is my last year, I have frequently considered that question. I sincerely feel that this college has given me a well-rounded program which has been, is, and will be, of extreme value to me. The friendliness of the faculty and student body is outstanding. I'm sure that I shall never forget my college friends. I appreciate the wholesome atmosphere of the campus. I know that I have gained much in high ideals and purposes.

The religious organizations, literary societies, dramatic groups, and athletic clubs offer a pleasing variety, but more than that they offer training for the many phases of life. For these things and countless others, I want to thank York College for four of the happiest and most worthwhile years of my life.

KANSAS STUDENT BELIEVES YORK GOOD CHOICE

Three years ago, after a year in a great state college with thirty-five hundred students, I came to York College. Never, since that time, have I had reason to regret the choice that I made.

The church-related college offers one advantage that the state school cannot give. The church-supported college is, in one sense, a part of the Church. In a state school, a student's religious activities are entirely extra-curricular. Religious life is necessarily, to a large extent, centered off the campus.

The Christian college makes a place for religion. The religious life of the college has its center in the school itself.

The church-college offers to its student body the privilege of contacting the leaders of the Church. No longer is the denominational leadership a far-away, impersonal force. Time and again, great men from every corner of the United Brethren Church and outstanding leaders from other denominations, too, have come to the York campus. Knowing these Christian leaders has been, to me, nothing less than a blessing.

As a future minister of the United Brethren Church, I have had the joy of living for three years among many others who also plan for a life of full-time Christian service. This experience will never be forgotten. No doubt in years to come I shall realize more fully than now just what a blessing this has been.

Colorado Athlete Gives Views of Y. C.

There are several reasons why I chose York College as my school. The first reason was, I suppose, the fact that I had friends here, and that I already knew something about the college. I knew it would be friendly and interested in me as a student and as an athlete.

FLOYD GIFFORD

I've enjoyed my three years of wearing York College colors. I believe that I have learned lessons while taking part in sports for York that will be valuable. I'll always remember Panther spirit and sportsmanship.

So, for my state, and for other athletes here in York, I say, "We're behind you 100%, York. March on, blue and white!"

PRE-MINISTERIAL SOPH CAME FROM OKLAHOMA FOR TRAINING

In my preparation for the ministry I early realized the need of higher education. York College was recommended to me by the Rev. W. B. Gilliland, who was then pastor of the Barr United Brethren Church, as a school where one could enrich his spiritual life while he was improving his intellect. As it was to my advantage to attend a college of our denomination I promptly decided, since it was my duty to prepare for a more efficient ministry, to attend York College.

I was not disappointed in the recommendation given me after I was faced with the facts. I found the faculty of York College willing to cooperate with any conscientious student in all the problems of campus life. The student body, too, is far above the average in its respect for spiritual, Christian living. This, with a wholesome regard for others and a spirit of equality, gives the students of York College a well balanced life.

LUMBER and COAL

IOWA SENIOR LOOKS BACK OVER CAREER

I am proud and fortunate to be a student at York College. I came, as a freshman, because I liked the general attitude of the student representatives sent out by the college. Little did I then realize the value of the aims and purposes of this institution.

I had been on the campus only a short while before I caught the college spirit. I grew to love the crude, old administration building. I admired the "big" manner in which our fellows took victory and defeat in football.

Three and one-half years have taught me many things which my textbooks did not contain. I have learned that to the truly great, material gains are of only secondary importance, and that it takes service to lead to ultimate happiness. I believe I have learned how to live.

I wonder if, and where, the gaiety and friendliness of York College students could ever be surpassed. Yet, beneath this gaiety is a greater, more intangible quality of which He must have been speaking when He said, "But rather seek ye the Kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you."

HELEN LUMBUS,
Waterloo, Iowa.

Missourian Likes Friendliness Here At York College

I'm from Missouri as you all know. Yes, I must admit it and I want to add that I'm proud of it. Well, here is the question that I'm asked so many times, why did you come to York College? Here is my answer. Being more or less a home boy and coming from a small town I've always had a number of friends around me. I visited the campuses of other colleges and I didn't feel that there was any friendliness there. Someone told me that friendliness was the keynote of student life in York College. And I must agree that there is an unusually democratic spirit on the college campus as the members of both the student body and the faculty are associated with one another in the regular activities of study, work, and play. The friendly spirit is also felt in the churches, in community life, and in places of business in the city of York. I had heard much of the friendly spirit of the people in Nebraska, and I believe that the people of this state, if they are like the ones here in York, are the friendliest in the country.

Have you ever seen more than two hundred students working together? Well, that is what happens here at York. The students here are all from average homes, have a desire to better themselves, and are willing to work. It is a wonderful sight to see the way the students get along, and everyone here works to help the other fellow, which is a great thing in this world of rush and turmoil. I'm proud that I am included when some one says, "There goes a Y. C. man."

PANTHER SPORTS

Panthers Beat Conference Foes

Hastings, Wesleyan Fall Before York Attack

Blue And White Humbles Broncos 40-26

Recent figures proved that the Panther is superior to the Bronco. Those same figures were the final score of 40-26 by which the Panthers humbled the Hastings Broncos in the first conference fray of the season for York on January 14.

Led by George Shaneyfelt, who made five field goals and four free tosses to take high point honors, the Panthers were never in danger. They took an early lead and allowed their favored conference foes only three free shots in the first quarter as compared to the five field goals scored in their favor during that period.

In the second period the Broncos did slightly better with Cramer and Horton breaking the spell by sinking one each. At the same time, however, the Panthers kept themselves amused by raising their total to 19.

The third quarter saw the Broncos staging their only rally when they scored ten points, but it was still to no avail as the Panthers retaliated with eleven counters. In the last quarter the York cagemen again added their quota of ten points while the Broncos went above their average by one point to reach their total.

Even though York seemed to be in command most of the way, Coach Rolland Tonkin did not substitute as freely as had been his habit in previous games and the boys played somewhat of a defensive game with Harold Haberman and Harvey Peters playing the outstanding roles.

TAKES WESLEYAN IN STRIDE 53-41

Tied for first place in the conference race, the Panther cagemen Friday night, January 17 handed a 53-41 defeat to the Wesleyan Plainsmen on the latter's floor.

After allowing the Plainsmen an 8-3 lead early in the game the Panthers tightened up and led by a score of 11-8 at the end of the first quarter. Never again did the Panthers trail although the Plainsmen made a last quarter rally and changed a score of 41-28 at the end of the third period to 45-41 with two minutes left to play. Harold Haberman and Wayne Kaeding took their cues here and completed the box score.

Numerous fouls occurred as the desperate Plainsmen committed a total of 24 to almost double the total errors of the Panthers.

Kearney Wins 38-33; First Defeat For Y. C. Panthers

No longer can the Panthers be referred to as the only undefeated team in the state as they suffered a 38-35 defeat at the hands of the Kearney Antelopes, Friday, January 24 on the latter's floor.

Major difficulties hampering the Panther play seemed to arise from their inability to work their fast break on the small Kearney floor and the absence of Wayne Kaeding who played for only a short time due to leg injuries received in the Wesleyan game the previous week.

After considerable changes in lead-holding took place in the first quarter, the Panthers emerged with an 11-10 margin. However, the lead fell back into the clutches of the Antelopes early in the second quarter and they held it throughout the game though they were pursued as closely as 27-25 at the end of the third quarter.

George Shaneyfelt paced both teams with fifteen points while Wilson led the Teachers with six field goals, all executed with the favorite one-hand shot characteristic of the Antelopes.

Reeves Talks To Y. M. On War; Officers Elected

"Some things are worse than war," according to Rev. Kenneth Reeves, new pastor of the local Presbyterian Church, who spoke to the Y. M. C. A. on January 21. Officers for the next semester were also elected.

The speaker said, "For any individual or any state to dictate to the masses everything they should do and think, and to leave them without any liberty would be worse than war. Such a social pattern takes away the common individual's desire to help raise the standards of civilization. Where these conditions now exist, it is assumed by the leaders that the masses have not enough intelligence to guide their own actions, and that they need a superman to guide them," he continued.

The Rev. Mr. Reeves wanted it understood that he was not a warmonger, that war in itself was bad enough, and that he had no desire to see our country at war. But he asserted that there were certain principles which were worth fighting for. He believes pacifism is now losing ground because it has nothing firm on which to stand. He continued by saying that he believed in Jesus Christ and his principles, and that America should do all in her power to conserve those principles.

Stine Douglas, sophomore of Beach, North Dakota, who has the past two semesters been vice-president of the college Y. M. C. A. was elected president. Other officers who were elected are: vice president, Lester Auchard, sophomore of Luray, Kansas; treasurer, Max Oswald, junior of Aurora; secretary, Hal Goodrich, freshman of Philomath, Oregon; and student council representative, Ray Thompson, junior of Lushton.

Carlyle once said, "Knowing a little about five hundred things won't do us much good. We must be able to do something well, that our work will be needed and valuable."

York College with its Christian students and faculty, its friendly atmosphere, and its high standards of education has as its purpose not only educating students intellectually, but also spiritually. It also aims to help them to grow physically and socially as well, in order that they may be well prepared to give of the best of their lives to whatever profession or task they may be called.

York College has made me see a wider world,—a world in which Christian workers are needed, a world in which service is the key to happiness. The young people of today will be either the salvation or downfall of the world of tomorrow, and York College is training young people to be better leaders and workers in building up our world.

Y. C. CONTRIBUTES TO EDUCATION DAY

It will soon be Education Day again. February 9 is the date set this year for special emphasis on Education so far as United Brethren Churches are concerned. The Sandburr observes Education Day each year too. It tries to make some specific contribution which is distinctly from the college to aid in making Education Day meaningful.

In various years the Sandburr has presented representative students from the classes and departments of the colleges giving their views on the work of York College in the field of higher education. Again, the conference superintendents have brought messages related to Education Day through the pages of your Sandburr.

This year the Sandburr brings you again student opinion concerning their college. It has accomplished this purpose by delegating a section of this issue, page two, entirely to Education Day. The Sandburr has tried to make this page representative of the college. First, there are student ideas there from each of the six conferences in the York Collge District, and also one contributor from the Pacific Area, which has several students in Y. C. Included in these you will find athletes, honor students, pre-ministerials, and almost every type of student. The Sandburr has brought them to you in cross-section. Examine what they say. See if their conceptions of York College square with yours. Find what various students demand of their college. That is all waiting for you on page two of this issue. It is the hope of the Sandburr that it will bring Education Day and York College a little nearer to you.

Our College . . . In Relation To You and Education Day

The church-related college is, first of all, an educational institution. But when we have said this we have by no means said all. The church-related college must be an educational institution plus.

Two great advantages are offered by the church college to the student. First, it offers education under the auspices of the church. Second, the Christian college should conserve religious faith and moral ideals.

Today totalitarian forms of government seem to be growing in popularity. In many lands the forces of dictatorship as opposed to democracy are victorious. If democracy is to survive, the school and the church must be free. The church-related college is free from state control in a sense in which the tax supported school cannot be free. One of the first steps toward dictatorship is the domination of education by politics. Furthermore if the church is to be strong, she must train her own leaders. The survival of the church-related college is essential if democracy is to live and grow.

The Christian college may be expected to be an institution that places the teachings of the Man of Galilee at the center of its program. In these fearful days of crashing systems and growing doubt, the Christian college must stand for a faith that is fundamental and vital. The Christian college must stand for the highest and most sacrificial form of moral idealism. We are living in a day when nations flaunt international law and individuals grow restive under moral prohibitions. It is the business of the Christian college to more than merely teach science and philosophy, history and the classics. It is the business of the Christian college to teach morals and, in a very practical sense, preach the gospel of Christ. The Christian college has a spiritual message for the healing of a materialistic world.

February 9 is Education Day in United Brethren churches. The churches of that great denomination will re-dedicate themselves to the support of their one college west of the Mississippi. The college will pledge itself anew to the cause of Christian education. E. A.

There are no traffic lights in Cuba, according to the speaker. Instead one finds a police officer on every corner. College in Northfield, Minnesota. Afterwards she attended Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls, Iowa where she received her B. A. degree. Miss Slee received her Master's degree from Cornell University in Ithaca, New York. She also has done graduate work at Iowa University, Washington University, Indiana University, and Colorado State Teachers College at Greeley, Colorado.

Her teaching career has been varied. She began teaching in the country schools, and then changed to the upper grades. These included the Rural Demonstration School in Cedar Falls, Iowa; Normal Training in Haittey, Iowa, high school; superintendent of consolidated schools in Prescott, Iowa, and a teacher in the County Normal School in Columbus, Wisconsin. Then in 1928, Miss Slee came to York College. This is her thirteenth year here. During her first year Miss Slee taught some social science and economics, but since then she has taught only education and nature study.

Miss Slee is director of student activities, sponsor of PALS, and head of the Education department.

Her hobbies are cooking and nature study. She is very fond of reading, too. Among the favorites she has recently read are, "Moment in Peking", and "The Nazarene."

Miss Slee has a favorite sport, too. "Formerly, I was fond of playing tennis; I still enjoy seeing a good tennis match," she said.

When asked as to her philosophy of life, Miss Slee made this remark, "I don't know whether you would call this a philosophy or not, but I feel that you generally get from people just what you expect to get."

Students find Miss Slee to be a good sport and a willing worker in any organization that she sponsors. Her other outstanding characteristics include a fine sense of humor and sincerity in all that she does.

This great army of friends of York College, with their allies, the alumni, and the people of the York community, are making the future of York College secure by responding to the challenge of the York College Golden Jubilee Campaign which is now on. Promoting the well-being of York College is one constructive way of helping meet the need of this critical period in Christian civilization. Note again the slogan of the Jubilee Campaign: "The Safety of the Nation Is in Christian Education."
