New Journalism Book

To students interested in journalism, Editing Small Newspapers by Walter Rae is available in the library. The book starts with the history of journalism. Next, every step in the production of the paper is given, telling first how a large paper does its work and then how a small paper should be managed. The book provides the necessary information for the staff of a small newspaper.

Songs and Flag Are Presented In Chapel Program

A new "Old Glory" now waves over the campus since the formal presentation of the flag was made by the Student Council on Monday during the chapel hour. Two recently published songs, were presented during the same program.

Esther Johnson, senior of Merna, led in the opening numbers as the entire chapel group sang the two songs which were being presented for the first time in printed form, "Panther Salute" and "On The Hill of the Rising Sun." Miss Eda Rankin, head of the York College conservatory piano department, was accompanist.

The speakers of the morning were Eloise Tabor, senior of Spokane, Washington, whose subject was "True Patriotism," and George Shaneyfelt, junior of Aurora, who spoke upon "The Meaning of the Flag."

Following the presentation of the flag by Walter Brant, Student Council president, and senior of Robinson, Kansas, Dr. D. E. Weidler, president of the college, accepted the emblem on behalf of the college, and the student body rose to sing the National Anthem.

The meeting adjourned to the flag pole where the new "Stars and Stripes" was hoisted and the group united in the salute to the flag of the United States.

Mrs. Johnson Will Teach Math and Phys. Ed.

Mrs. Amy Speece Johnson

Dean W. E. Bachman announced last week that Mrs. Amy Speece Johnson, '41, will be a member of the York College faculty, beginning with the first semester of next year. She will direct the work in physical education for girls and will teach several classes in mathematics.

Mrs. Glock Entertains Zetas

Mrs. Pauline Bradwell Glock, 18, charter member of the Zeta Literary society, spoke to that organization on the beginning of the society at a meeting in Zeta hall, Tuesday evening, April 20. A Servicemen's Honor Roll was purchased by the group and was presented by Daisy Million, vice-president and junior of Noel, Mo.

"Every person who has ever belonged to Zetas has been happy he did so," stated Mrs. Glock. "From this society have gone men and women who have made themselves prominent in all fields of work."

Mrs. Glock explained that the society, which was founded in 1914, was carried out on a rather strict basis. At each meeting a different faculty member served as critic. There were large crowds at the meetings, but the meetings were always formal.

Mrs. Glock herself, at different times, served as secretary, treasurer, vice-president, and president. During her senior year the society had its anniversary program and she sang two solos.

"When I was graduating from college we were in the midst of the first World war and the society and the college lost many of its members, as you are doing now. We had to carry on then, and I know you will do the same now," she concluded.

The Honor Roll is made of heavy white paper and is lithographed in red, white, and blue. It contains twenty-six names of former members of the Zetas now in service. Plans are being made to have it framed soon.

Sunrise Service Easter Morning In Zeta Hall

Huebert, who has been teaching school in Helvey this year, was active in histrionics, Zetas, Life Work Recruits, and Press Guild when he attended college here before. Last year he was sports editor of the Burr.

Miss Miller has been active in PALS and Y. W. C. A. and is now vice president of the latter organization. She has been on the Sandhurr staff during this past year and at present is the new editor.

Mystery Play To Be Presented On May 11

"A thrilling mystery with a kidnapping and plenty of action" is promised by the cast when "Me And My Shadow," a three act play by J. Vincent Barrett, is presented by the York College Players in the college chapel Tuesday, May 11, at 8:00 o'clock.

Shadow, played by Virginia Hinkel, senior of Cambridge, Iowa, is a native of India. She is saved from death by Don Hines, freshman of Yuma, Colo., who portrays Roy Harrington. Margaret Trout, junior of Culbertson, is Mrs. Harrington.

Dr. Douglas, a friend of Roy's, is portrayed by Dick Riggs, freshman of Merville, Iowa. Mrs. King, the allergic mother-in-law, is Margaret Gaston, junior of Oklahoma City, Okla. Eloise Tabor, senior of Spokane, Wash., plays the part of the rather dense maid. Mrs. Butler, played by Thelma Rockhold, freshman of Salina, Kans., is the nosey neighbor.

Sabu, the Hindu mystic, and Hickson, the sheriff, are played by Fred Gaston, sophomore of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Don Koenig, freshman of Yuma, Colo., respectively. No admission will be charged.

Annual Y-Club Date Picnic Held

The annual Y-Club date picnic was held on Monday evening, April 19, at the Blue river, south of York. The picnic grounds was reached via the college bus.

The first activity was a heated game of softball with almost all of those thirty-five present participating. The ball game ended pronto when the "come and get it" sign was put out. The picnickers were treated to fried chicken, sandwiches, potato chips, and pop.

After the appetites were supposedly satisfied, most couples were seen wandering off toward the moon. The highlight of the evening came when one young lassie fell into the river and walked out looking like a wet rag.

The curfew blew at 9:30 which meant that the evening was about over. With just two minutes to spare the bus screeched to a halt in front of the "Con" with no casualties listed.

Pvt. Jacob Sandoval, '43, has been transferred from Camp Siebert, Alabama, to Greenville, Penn.

The Post is a Personnel Replacement depot and serves as a clearing house. All branches of the service are represented.

In an examination to determine fitness to attend a specialist school, Sandoval made 130 points out of a possible 150. However, it was made known later that only men under 23 years of age and having less than three years of college were eligible.

Heading the list of Service Men's letters this issue is Private Floyd Taylor, '43, who is stationed at Wisconsin State Teachers College in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"We're staying in the field house," he writes, "because they don't have a boy's dormitory here. Right now they are laying a floor over the track and are going to put beds all around the floor. Then we can play basketball, badminton, etc., here. Upstairs there are handball courts and another gym. The college is going to furnish all the athletic equipment we need.

"I was talking to the coach today, and I asked him about sprinting against his sprinters later on. He said it would be fine. Maybe Louie and I will try our luck at our old pastime again."

Pvt. Laurence C. Smith, ex-'44 Army Air Force, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Michigan.

"We're in as nice a campus as anyone could want, and the facilities are excellent. We are to enter into student activities and to be considered like any other students as far as the college is concerned. However, the army officers may feel a little differently about that, and I don't think we'll have too much freedom.

"The courses offered include English, history, geography, physics, mathematics, and certain electives which the college will assign us to. Because I am going to be here only a month, I won't get any of that work, but will have civil air regulations, a little flying, and some of the electives. Our schedule looks very light when I think of what I carried in college."

Pvt. Elwyn R. Phillips, '43 Fort Belvoir, Virginia.

"Fort Belvoir is a pretty place. It is located eighteen miles south of Washington, D. C. and four miles north of Mount Vernon. It is situated in the hills, not far from the Potomac river.

Fort Belvoir is one of three engineering camps in the United States. The engineering branch of service ranks second in importance, so I feel that it is an honor to get to be in it."

Pvt. Glenn Shaneyfelt, ex-'46. Fort Knox, Kentucky.

"By now the army is really beginning to pop in my face. Today was our first day of basic training. Last week was all the preliminary that goes with the army. This preliminary isn't a small matter either; shots, vaccinations, lectures, classifications, and drill.

"Our company is divided into four platoons. I'm in the fourth which will specialize in truck driving and the half truck. All the other platoons are tank specialists. The reason I'm in the fourth is because in my interview I mentioned driving a truck and liking it. We all get to drive all vehicles though, so I'm not discouraged. Everyone here says the tanks are easier to drive than the trucks, but from the looks of them the trucks ought to be easier. In a tank the driver drives practically blind.

"Eldon Anderson is in number three platoon just next door. The whole company eats at the same place so I see him every day. Rasmussen from Nebraska Wesleyan bunks about four beds down in our platoon."

DuWayne Grimes, '43, is now in Sheppard Field, Tex.

Paul Reger, ex-'46, has been sent from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., to Indiana Central College, a United Brethren college in Indiana.

Edwin Seward, ex-'46, has been transferred to Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

A.C./C. Howard L. DeBoer, ex-'44, is now attending James Millikin University in Decatur, Illinois.

Pvt. Deane Tack, ex-'43, now stationed at Camp Robinson, Ark., writes that when he was called into service and left K. U. March 9, he received only 1-4 credit for his work in this semester.

York College followed the University of Nebraska in allowing full credit to seniors who needed less than eighteen hours of credit to qualify for graduation.

Tack states that he is in the medical department, and will receive eleven weeks of basic training in Camp Robinson.

Prof. Morgan Entertains Recruits

Prof. J. C. Morgan, sponsor of the Life Work Recruits organization, entertained that group at his home recently in lieu of the regular Wednesday meeting usually held in Hulitt Hall.

Helen Hall, senior of Parsons, Kansas, had charge of the devotions. Following two musical numbers by Esther Johnson, senior of

"I think York College is to be congratulated because of its fine type of instructors as well as its sincere and earnest type of students," said Mr. F. C. Middlebrook, owner of Middlebrook's Department store, (the Make It Right Store) and faithful advertiser in the Sandburr.

Mr. Middlebrook has been a generous contributor to York college nearly every year, and gave $1000 three months ago.

Mr. Middlebrook came to York in 1916 and established his business here. He had previously been in the same type of business in Kansas for fifteen years.

Three York college students, Eleanor Pflug, Virginia Hinkel, and Walter Brant, are now employed part time at Middlebrook's store.

"We have diversified buying, due to the war, but so far we have been very fortunate in that our stocks of merchandise are almost as complete as in 1941," stated Mr. Middlebrook. "We as a department store appreciate the patronage of the York college men and women.

Merna, the evening was spent in games and a "Quiz Kid" program.

Prof. Morgan, aided by Joe Stauffer, junior of Lecompton, Kansas, and Lester Auchard, senior of Woodston, Kansas, was quizmaster. If the correct answer was given to a question, the speaker received a "bright new aluminum dollar," but if the incorrect answer was given, the reward was just a copper penny.

At the close of the evening, Mrs. Morgan served light refreshments.

Entered as right classy matter at the United Snakes post office.

Editor Speaking

National Anthem . . .

In the days of international struggle, we pride ourselves in our patriotism. We speak of the great meaning and assurance we find in the flag. We wish to uphold our country and to do our utmost for its benefit. Isn't it rather striking that few United States citizens, no matter how patriotic they may appear, know more than the first stanza of their National Anthem?

There are four stanzas to the "Star Spangled Banner," and each holds as much meaning as the others. Let's learn the words and grow to appreciate their meaning. We shall be better Americans for having done so.

Someone Talked . . .

A sinking ship. Drowning men. SOMEONE TALKED! A well-laid plan gone away—lives lost—the attack a failure. SOMEONE TALKED!

With increasing emphasis we have been warned that we must cease all loose talk. The information we may furnish the enemy probably will not be some well-rounded plan for an attack or the definite sailing hour of an overseas ship. No. The information we furnish through careless talk will be perhaps one mere part in a large jig-saw puzzle. These small parts must not be allowed to reach the enemy.

Keep those surmises to yourself. Although they might be only suppositions to you, they might be right, and a listening enemy agent could fit your proffered bit into a neat little vacant place in his puzzle.

Do not mention troop movements. Do not speak of the type of work which you think is being done in certain defense plants where secrecy is to be maintained. Do not talk about supply shipments, either on the continent or overseas. The mention of these things may seem unimportant to us, but the listening ear of the enemy may find good use for every word.

Our men are the ones who will suffer from our careless talk. Each discrepancy in the plans for our fighting men means that Victory is held back for a longer time.

Silence is absolutely necessary. When you see a poster saying "Someone Talked," MAKE SURE THAT THE "SOMEONE" IS NOT YOU.

N. C. A. C. Football Halted For Duration

At a recent meeting of coaches and college representatives, it was decided to discontinue N. C. A. C. football for the duration.

York, Midland, Hastings, Doane and Wesleyan make up the conference. Each college has the privilege of sponsoring a team and having an independent schedule, but conference competition is out for the duration.

"York College will not play football until after the war, and other colleges having no military or naval units in training probably will drop football, too," declared Dr. Charles Bisset, chairman of York College athletic board.

The main reason for curtailing football was because of the lack of athletes and coaches who are being called into the armed forces. Some of the colleges probably will not attempt to employ an athletic coach.

A decision as to whether basketball will be played next fall has been postponed until a later meeting, Dr. Bisset said.

PANTHER PATER

"Gypsie"

It seems that our greenhouse on wheels planted itself deep in the heart of McCool on the return trip of the Hastings meet last week, and refused to budge. Chivalry still exists, and four husky tracksters made their way by thumb in order to lighten the burden on poor old "Nellie". P. S. It wasn't your driving that scared them, "C"!

We suggest that Daryl might learn that spikes are meant to aid in winning and their purpose is not to slash the human flesh, particularly that of the wearer.

Since there are no tennis matches scheduled this year, we think the college should hold a tournament not only to use the tennis courts, but also to reveal some latent talent. By this issue, steps may have been taken in this direction; if so, let's cooperate, and if not, let's get after it.

Eager players unable to wait for the completion of the courts have been working out on the gym floor. Some of the probable netmen, besides the women, are as follows: Goodrich, only returning letterman, Brant, Otto, Munsinger, Hartman, Riggs, Shaneyfelt, and Gillespie. N. C. A. C. tennis singles and doubles tournament will be held at Midland May 18.

As a substitute for basketball, some of the men have been trying out for the handball team.

It is not just a rumor that Gus and Walter are interested in girls' basketball, 'cause we saw them playing.

Two More Conference Meets

A conference track meet at Hastings, May 7, and an all state college track meet at Kearney, April 30, are the only meets left in which to compete this year. The York College Panthers are hoping to redeem themselves and come up with some record smashers.

Cindermen Edge Out Midland for Fourth Place

York college trackmen barely squeezed out a fourth place at the track meet held at Wesleyan last Friday, by edging out Midland 22 to 21 1/2. All of the schools in the conference were present including Doane which won the meet with 46 points, followed by Hastings with 38, Wesleyan, 35 1/2, York, 22 and Midland, 21 1/2.

George Shaneyfelt was the only Panther to chalk up a first place. His 125' 10", toss won the discus and fourth place in the javelin made him high scorer for the cindermen with 6 points. Niles Shoff, our consistent pole vaulter, tied for first place at 10' 2 1/2". "Iron Man" Speece did his share of scoring with 5 3-4 points. He took second in the 100 yard dash, fourth in the broad jump, tied for third in the high jump and ran in the 880 relay which placed third.

Outstanding athletes of the track meet were Weber of Doane and Madden of Hastings. Weber placed first in the high jump and low hurdles, third in the discus throw, second in the high hurdles and ran in the 880 relay, which Doane won. Madden, star distance man for the Broncos ran the mile in 4:32, and the two mile in a starting 10:2.

S. C. A. Convention In Omaha

"Begin on time and close on time" was the slogan adopted by the leaders of the District Council Convention of representatives, presidents, and counselors of the Nebraska District of the Student Christian Association held at the First Congregational church in Omaha, April 17. Winifred Smith, junior of Enid, Oklahoma, District Council Representative, and Daisy Million, junior of Noel, Missouri, president of the local Y. W. C. A. represented York College.

The convention opened with a worship service and group singing. Following an informal introduction of every delegate present, Miss Evelyn M. von Hermann, regional secretary of the S. C. A., presented an informal discussion on "The Values We Must Conserve on Our Campuses Today." These values all contribute to the purpose of the S. C. M., "to deepen our faith and to build a Christian community."

Without any delay the convention was divided into three groups for discussions. Division was made according to the cabinet position each delegate held. The discussion of the presidents' group centered around the betterment of cabinet meetings. The function of district council representatives was explained in their group discussion.

The District Council is to be made up of a representative from each local organization. From this council an executive committee is elected to take charge of the business of the District Council and also to represent the district in the Regional Council. The Rocky Mountain Region, of which Nebraska District is a part, in turn is represented in the national organization of the S. C. A.

The executive committee of Nebraska District, which was elected in the evening session of the convention, consists of two co-chairmen, Barbara Townsend and Warren Stage of Nebraska University; two adult advisers, Miss Mary Lockett of Nebraska University and Mr. Costerisan of Wayne State Teachers' College; and four students-at-large, Winifred Smith of York College, Martha Cole of Omaha University, Perry Newman of Nebraska Wesleyan, and Rebanis Frankforter of Peru State Teachers' College.

The main discussion of the afternoon was concerning the changes that are taking place on our campuses today and the problems caused by them. The most outstanding problem discussed was the apathy that exists among students left on the campuses.

Colleges represented among the delegates were York College, Kearney State Teachers' College, Wayne State Teachers' College, Nebraska Agricultural and Mechanical College, Nebraska University, Doane College, Omaha University, and Peru State Teachers' College.

Mr. Bachman Addresses Y. M.

When Jesus Christ was resurrected. He realized it would make a new foundation for the world that would be firm and secure. His sixth saying upon the cross, "It is finished", was a statement of victory, according to Dr. W. E. Bachman in his address at Y. M. C. A., Tuesday, April 20.

"Jesus went to the cross as a victor and He realized that His physical career on earth was done" said Dr. Bachman. "The people of today should build upon the foundation He has finished. Upon His resurrection, an old order had been completed, and foundation for a new order had begun."

"Jesus established a new element of brotherhood in the world and a new element of teaching concerning the cross," declared Dr. Bachman.

The meeting opened by singing, "He is So Precious to Me", led by Daryl Severin, senior of Imperial, accompanied by Bruce Herrick, junior of Dayton, Ohio. Robert Gillespie, freshman of Glendale, California, led the devotions. Professor J. C. Morgan, head of the classical language department, offered the closing prayer.

Mex., led devotions and a quartet consisting of Daryl Severin, senior of Imperial, Bruce Herrick, junior of Dayton, O., LeRoy Bott, sophomore of Alexander, Kans., and Dick Riggs, freshman of Merville, Ia., sang several Easter numbers. ## "Spirit of '76" Presented By Mr. Joel M. Roberts

Mr. Joel M. Robert, of South Gate, California, former member of the executive committee and of the board of trustees of York college, recently presented the picture "Spirit of '76" to York College. The following words, which will be shown with the picture, give an explanation of the gift:

"The 'Spirit of '76' was painted by Archibald M. Willard in 1875. The original painting hangs on the walls of Abbot Hall in Marblehead, Massachusetts. The figures are life size and all are actual portraits. The artist, Archibald M. Willard, used his father as a model for the old drummer. The central figure, the fifer, was a blacksmith who lived in the suburbs of Cleveland, and the drummer boy was selected from the pupils of the public school of Cleveland. This boy, Harry Devereaux, was the son of General John H. Devereux, a native of Marblehead, who purchased the painting of 1880 and presented it to the town. The Willard family lived at Cleveland, Ohio.

"This picture was presented to York College on April 6, 1943, by Joel M. Roberts of South Gate, California. The old gentleman with the drum was a relative of Mr. Roberts' mother. Mr. Roberts has been a staunch supporter of York College, having made a number of substantial gifts to the school. He served for many years on the Executive committee and board of trustees."

From a newspaper column comes this information concerning the original "Spirit of '76.":

"The painting now famous as the 'Spirit of '76' received its present name because of a Boston half-wit.

"The picture first was created in a humorous vein representing a village Fourth of July celebration parade and was entitled "Yankee Doodle." Upon its completion a friend of Willard suggested the possibilities of changing it into a more serious patriotic picture. Archibald promptly started work and, in 1876, completed the picture as it now appears.

"Still retaining its original title of 'Yankee Doodle,' the painting took the country by storm. While on exhibition in Boston, it was suggested that the title be changed to 'Spirit of '76' because of its original name's possible association with the nickname of a well-known Boston half wit commonly known as Yankee Doodle. The change was adopted and has remained until this day."
