

Lt. Wayne Dahlstedt Awarded Silver Star Posthumously

Mrs. Bette Dahlstedt Receives Decoration At Lincoln

Mrs. Bette Dahlstedt, ex-'42 and son, Wayne

For gallantry in action which cost his life at Schweinheim, Germany, on March 31, 1945, Lt. Wayne Dahlstedt, '40 has been awarded the silver star posthumously. His widow, Mrs. Bette Crum Dahlstedt, ex-'42, of Des Moines received the medal at the office of Col. J. P. Murphy, commandant of the R. O. T. C. at the University of Nebraska, on the afternoon of Nov. 4. The next day, with Wayne II, she visited the York College campus where the above picture was taken.

During his four years in York College, Lt. Dahlstedt was active in nearly every organization. He was president of his class, editor-in-chief of the Marathon, business manager and feature writer of the Sandhurr, member of the "Dukes of York" quartette that travelled for the college two summers, as well as of other musical groups and literary and dramatic organizations.

An English major, he took a master's degree at the University of Nebraska while working as a reporter on the State Journal, and then went to the University of Illinois on a teaching fellowship. In the second year of his work there he was called to army duty in March, 1943. He received his commission at Fort Benning, Ga. Nov. 30, 1944, and was overseas only two and a half months before his death. He was attached to the forty-fifth division of the Seventh army. His brother, Lt. Waldo Dahlstedt, '40, was also in the Seventh army and part of the time, was stationed only fifty miles away. He has just arrived in York on an extended leave.

The citation reads in part: "In spite of the intensity of enemy fire, Lt. Dahlstedt continuously exposed himself to urge his men forward. Although the platoon was in danger of being cut off from friendly troops by enemy counter-attack, Lt. Dahlstedt, by skillfully maneuvering his platoon, forced the enemy to withdraw. After eliminating several enemy machine gun positions the platoon reached its objective, but during the action, Lt. Dahlstedt was fatally wounded. His inspiring leadership and devotion to duty reflect credit upon himself and his organization."

Task of Christian In World Today Stressed By Dr. G. Kennedy

Dr. Gerald Kennedy, minister of the St. Paul Methodist church in Lincoln and speaker during Religious Emphasis Week, November 12-16, emphasized in his evening messages and chapel talks the task of Christians and the church in the kind of a world in which we now live. Religious Emphasis Week is sponsored by the York Ministerial Alliance and York College.

Describing the present age, Dr. Kennedy stated Monday evening that the world is bored; it feels itself at a dead-end; and it has lost faith in its destiny. The Christian church must have young men who dream dreams, and old men who see visions. Let us catch a vision of the power that we have and of tasks that we are called to do. This is the most wonderful opportunity since time began to name His name.

Tuesday evening Dr. Kennedy challenged his audience to become clothing for the Spirit of God, for the method that God Almighty uses is to find some man who will be clothed in His spirit. God is limited in that He makes Himself known through another man's life.

"In a day like this, who is going to blow the trumpet call? With all our courage and all our force the buglers of God ought to be set a-blowing for Christ," said Dr. Kennedy Thursday evening. The church ought to be a trumpet call proclaiming that above everything is God; proclaiming the right of the prophetic voice to speak; and proclaiming brotherhood.

In chapel Friday, he emphasized the fact that we have taken from our center of living the altar where we worship our God, and have put there the pagan altar of material-

ATTENTION, ALUMNI AND FRIENDS!

We know you will want a copy of the 1946 Marathon. It will feature the Y. C. servicemen and be dedicated to the Gold Star men. It will contain pictures of all the graduates since the last Marathon was published, and a number of you will find yourselves and your friends on its pages, as well as new campus shots. The fact that enrollment is still reduced by the war makes your help necessary to the full success of the project. An early reservation of your copy will be especially appreciated by the staff. Send your name now, and your four dollars by Feb. 1 or before to Eunice Stauffer, Sales Mgr. 929 Kiplinger Ave., York, Nebr.

ism. Our religion has become something we use in an emergency. This off centeredness has destroyed the unity of life; has given a false interpretation of human life; has destroyed the foundation of our Western Culture, which is Christianity; and has defied freedom and made it an end in itself.

"There is a deep hunger in the hearts of men today for affirmations," Dr. Kennedy declared in his closing message Friday evening. "We wish we could believe that the world could be changed; there is a hunger for affirmation that life can be better; and there is a hunger for the affirmation that God is, and that He speaks to men. And we Christian people are the ones who ought to be able to feed that hunger; Christianity is made for a world like this."

It's funny how many people spend all day getting out of a morning's work.

Wanda Miller And Cliff Rhoades Honored at Football Banquet

Panther Sweetheart and Rep. Football Man Presented at Annual Affair

Wanda Miller

Cliff Rhoades

Miss Wanda Miller of Hoisington, Kans., and Clifford Rhoades of York, freshmen, were presented as the Panther Sweetheart and Representative Football Man for 1945 at the annual football banquet Tuesday evening, November 20, at the United Brethren church. The theme of the program was, "Salute to the Team."

Miss Miller was presented as the Panther Sweetheart by Don Robson, sophomore of Thayer. She has been elected cheerleader and is president of her class. She has also been active in Press Guild and in the dramatics department, besides various other extra-curricular functions.

The announcement of Rhoades' election as representative football man was made by Denny Auchard, student coach of Woodston, Kans. Rhoades' main interests, other than football, are mathematics and science. He also plans to become a member of the Zeta Literary Society.

"Salute to the Team," the theme of the banquet, was carried out in the program and the decorations. Kenneth Hicks, junior of Iola, Kans., served as toastmaster and welcomed the team. The letters of the word, "Sixman" made up the program: S—Prof. R. E. Townsend, acting coach; I—piano duet, "Finale To The Overture To 'William Tell'" by Rossini, by Marjorie Thornton, junior of Billings, Mont., and Eunice Stauffer, senior of Meadow Grove; X—Presentation of the Panther Sweetheart by Don Robson; M—Panther Sweetheart; A—Senior Girls' Trio consisting of Pattie Weidler of York, Irene Falk of Stromsburg, and Dollie Anderson of Albuquerque, N. Mex., accompanied by Marjorie Thornton presented "Play Gypsies!" by Kalman and "Will O' The Wisp" by Sprass; and N—presentation of representative football man by Denny Auchard.

Panthers who were honored, with their acting coach, Prof. Townsend, were: seniors: Wayne Schwindt of La Crosse, Kans., and J. W. Tomlinson of York; sophomores: Eloy Martinez of Antonito, Colo., Bob Moomey of York, Don Robson of Thayer, Rudy Rojahn of Stockton, Calif., and Jim Townsend of York; freshmen: Denny Auchard, who will be a sophomore next semester, Jim Hannon of Beaver Crossing, Merwin Kurtz of Alton, Kans., Reuben Ruybalid of Antonito, Colo., Bob Battreal and Stanley Jorn of Lushton, Bill Walker, Kenneth Foster, Bob Jokerst, and Clifford Rhoades, all of York, and Bob Ranard of Giltner.

Chairmen of the program and decoration committees were: Pattie Weidler and Wanda Miller respectively. Those on the ticket committee were Max Allen, senior, of Washta, Ia., Stanley Jorn, and Bette Daniels, freshman of Salina, Kans.

WSSF Aids These Co-eds

Chinese Co-Eds Acting As Farmerettes

Education is bought at a great price in China. The country has been at war for many years. Not only has she fought outside forces, but China has also been torn by civil strife. All through this chaos Chinese students and professors have worked cooperatively to keep alive the spark of education. When the universities were bombed out, students carried the school equipment piece by piece back into safe territory. Some of these universities have had to be moved several times. They are now poorly equipped. The students are undernourished and the inadequate staff of instructors underpaid. Yet together they are keeping on.

The students have had to do any work that they can find. The co-eds in the above picture are typical. They are doing farm labor. The school sessions are being held in caves, old buildings, anywhere. But they are being held!

What can be done to help? The week following Thanksgiving each student on the York campus will be asked to help financially the W. S. S. F. The World Student Service Fund is reaching out to help not only the destitute students in China but also needy students everywhere. It is a world wide organization and seeks to help all suffering students no matter what the color or creed.

At the same time the Life Work Recruits will be holding the solicitation for money for the African Project which is sponsored annually by all the United Brethren colleges. The money is used to send a missionary to Africa.

York College's quota for the combined drives is $400. This makes the amount for each student and faculty member around three dollars. Because of the great educational opportunities afforded in America and because of the ease with which one can acquire an education here it is felt that any small sacrifices combined with those of other students can do much to ease the suffering of students today.

Plans And Campaign For Marathon Are Underway

The sales campaign for the 1945-46 Marathon was launched by a skit presented in a recent chapel program, under the auspices of the business and sales-managers, Mrs. Reva Tomlinson, junior, and Eunice Stauffer, senior. The scene was supposed to take place in the living room of the Tomlinson home in 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson, now senior and junior of York College, were seated in the living room reminiscing as they leafed through the supposed 1945-46 Marathon. As they spoke concerning the various pictures of athletics, WAA, music, Press Guild, dramatics, freshman court, homecoming, classes, professors, servicemen, and Marathon Staff, the photographs were portrayed by students on the stage. At the close of the program, advance sales were made at class meeting, and of the students present, almost 100 per cent subscribed.

Miss Edith Callender, adviser, accompanied by Mrs. Roberta Allen, senior, Berthoud, Colo., editor-in-chief, and Mrs. Ruth Auchard, senior, Woodston, Kans., associate editor, motored to Lincoln where they discussed plans for the 1945-46 Marathon with "Bill" DeVriendt of the Capital Engraving Co.

Miss Thompson Steadily Improving; Is On Crutches

Miss Anna Thompson, York College Registrar and Treasurer, who suffered several fractures besides cuts and bruises when struck by a truck on Sept. 27, is reported able to be about her home on crutches. A telephone within easy reach and two mail deliveries a day are helping to keep her in touch with her many friends.

"I wish I could acknowledge all the letters and cards I have received," she says, "but there are too many. Friends of the college and former students from everywhere have written to me, and I want them to know that I certainly appreciate it."

Miss Thompson does not make any prediction at this time as to when she will be able to take up her work again, but says she is gaining strength every day.

MARIE PETTIT ENGAGED

Miss Marie Pettit, '42, has written friends of her engagement to Leonard Whipple, Industrial Arts instructor at Brush, Colorado, where she is also teaching. For the past two years Miss Pettit taught Normal Training at Gresham high school. She describes her fiance as "big, blonde, and aggressive."

Know thyself is a great idea—but don't go around telling everybody.

Imogene Bland

Shelby, Nebr., has produced many fine things, such as, the man who had the most to do with inventing the atomic bomb; Dr. John Dunning, Terence Duren, the artist; and Imogene Bland, the dark haired, brown-eyed girl who has priority on this week's "Seniorities".

"Impy", as she is known around the campus, is a mathematics major. She expects to teach math to high school students in the future.

"Imo", as she is also sometimes called, has a queer habit of talking in her sleep. Her roommates tell this reporter that Imogene is still worrying about the outcome of Homecoming basketball game—in her sleep. She once remarked in her sleep when asked if she were awake, "No, I'm asleep and I know it and it makes me mad!"

As president of the W. A. A., Imogene serves her organization faithfully. She was elected to the position of Chief Justice of Freshmen Court earlier this semester. Imogene belongs to Y. W. C. A. and Zetas, and has held office in each organization.

"People who are slow are my pet peeve," she said with a look of disgust. "I also hate to get up in the morning—but then I suppose most college students do."

Shoes fascinate her. She has a peculiar weakness for them and is always sporting a new pair. It was found out that her closet floor is lined with them.

no further use to the navy."

Lt. (j.g.) Daryl G. Severin, (Y. C. '43) in a letter to Dr. E. I. Doty early in November, writes as follows:

"We are having good duty with our ship now. We were chosen to steam to Washington, D. C., both for Nimitz' Day and Navy Day. We had a daily average of 6000 visitors aboard. We are now underway with 200 navy men and a navy football team from Norfolk, Va. to play Annapolis. We will come back to our home base in Norfolk Sunday night. It is not bad at all, but I shall be glad to start studying again, and most of all, to start teaching as soon as possible."

In an earlier letter, Lt. Severin had expressed his intention of entering the Graduate School of Yale University following his discharge from the navy. He plans to take a master's and a doctor's degree in Religious Education, and then he hopes to teach in a church-related college. His address is:

Mrs. Lenora Leslie Terrell, ex-'41, writes from her home at 229 Duncan St., Stillwater, Okla. that she is expecting her husband home from the Pacific war zone very soon. He is reported to have left Guam the middle of October with a record of 43 missions over Japan and China in a Liberator photo-bomb squadron.

The Terrells have three boys, the eldest of whom she describes as "definitely ready for school" although he was not permitted to attend this year because his sixth birthday came nearly a month after the deadline. Mrs. Terrell says she was led to write after reading the Sandburr of October 11 in which she found several familiar names.

The Editor Says:

Accentuate the THANKS

This year Thanksgiving does not mean merely the return of turkey to our tables but also the return of peace to our land. Thanksgiving today means that our people are thankful to God for the return of peaceful living once again.

People of America are thankful today for the victory over oppression that has come to our land. We fought bravely, worked steadily, sacrificed heavily, and prayed incessantly for this victory. Yet, we cannot forget that without our Lord's help this victory could never have been realized. This year we can show our thanks by accentuating THANKS during Thanksgiving season.

The people of America, and the world, are also thankful to the men and women who fought and died to save our land's ideals. They fought for freedom to worship—freedom to worship as, when, and how one pleases. Can we let our heroes down by not going to our places of worship and giving humble thanks to the Prince of Peace for protecting our land? No, we cannot. We must accentuate the THANKS of Thanksgiving as we never have before.

ON THANKSGIVING

By Gum

When the Pilgrims were just a short way from Plymouth Rock, Captain Roberto Oswald Vance called his trusty first mate Maximilian Allen to his side. "We seem to be having some trouble with the engine of our sail-boat", he complained. "If it were just a Ford, I'd know how to Fitchitt", said first mate Allen. "As it is; we'd better Rigg(s) up something and head for shore away from the Scharck that's been following us. They landed!"

The fierce Indians rushed to meet them!! Muscles Loth appeased their wrath by passing out little boxes with mirrors in them, called Mayflower Compacts.

"How do we get to James Town (send)?" asked Dennison Auchardson. "I Wantz to get started 'cause I'm Friesen."

"Just Walk-(er) down the Cliff Rhoades," replied Big Chief Eloy.

Slowly and painfully they trudged down the Rhoades. Everyone was weary, especially the two children, Ander's son and Kenneth's Foster child.

At last they reached the village. All of the log cabins were made of Lockwood. The Pilgrims lit their Lamps (hire) and settled for the night.

"I hear that there are a lot of Hicks in these woods", remarked Maria McCullough the next morning as she stood talking to Donnal Wee Wobson. "F'eevens sake, yes," he replied, "I know 'cause I just saw a Goodwin."

Several weeks later, after the shops had been set up for the Taylor, Baker and Miller, the Parson, Tiny Langseth called the Pilgrims together and said, "The men in this village, led by Jewellton and Betteton Daniels Boone, shall go out and shoot some turkeys and we will invite the Indians to our Thanksgiving dinner.

The men went hunting but all they could find was a Herron and a couple of Cox. Even though they didn't have turkey, the women prepared a wonderful dinner. This ability to overcome difficulties well accounts for the Pilgrims' Progress.

Lt. (j.g.) Al Zerwekh, USNR, (Y. C. '42) writes from the South Pacific. Referring to his leave last August, he says: "My leave was most enjoyable. I spent the entire time (28 days) in New Mexico with Ruth (Ruth Brandstetter Zerwekh, '42). Her folks drove down to see us for a long weekend, and we had some good outings as well as ample time to catch up on family affairs.

"At the time that the Japanese surrender was announced, my ship was at Guam, but of course I had left it and returned to the states. I was in New Mexico on August 14, helping my mother celebrate her birthday anniversary, and you may be sure that the celebration was much enhanced by the radio announcement of the capitulation.

"The ship is now in Wakeyama, Japan, busily engaged in you know what, and reaping a pretty good harvest. So far it is still in one piece, and the typhoons have avoided it, too, or vice versa. Before my detachment, we were based at Ehiwetok, and made runs to Majuro, Kwajalein, Manus, Ulithi, Kossol, Peleliu, Saipan, Guam, Okinawa, and Leyte. Of course we saw Pearl Harbor several times, and also participated in a job at French Frigate Shoals early in the war. A lot of our duty was Escort and Patrol, so we were underway much of the time. Minecraft are engaged in the activity for which they were intended almost exclusively since the cessation of hostilities, and the COMPEL is no exception.

"Since returning to the coast I have been engaged in personnel work, concerned with demobilization. The work is interesting, and varied enough to preclude the possibility of boredom. My position is of a temporary nature, so that I expect to be sent out again at any time, but if I stay here past the first of the year, I shall probably be eligible for inactive duty some time in the spring, and of course will welcome the return to civilian status when I can be of

Coach Tonkin To Resume His Duties

Coach R. E. Tonkin will return to York College as Director of Physical Education and Athletic

Coach R. E. Tonkin and family

Coach around the twenty-sixth of November, according to Dean W. E. Bachman.

Coach Tonkin has been released from war work at Tulare, Calif., and will return to the campus after three years' leave.

He and his wife, the former Lucille Stoskopf, ex-'38, and their two children left California the first of November and are visiting relatives before returning to York. They are travelling by car.

Coach Tonkin, who graduated from York College in 1938, came here as Director of Physical Education and Athletic Coach in 1940. While in college, he lettered all four years in football, basketball, and track in his senior year, he was named Representative Football Man.

Don Robson Is Student Coach of Basketball Team

Basketball practice got underway at York College, Nov. 8, when the first workout was held at the college gym with Don Robson, student coach, and Prof. R. E. Townsend, Acting Director of Men's Athletics, in charge of the players.

Twenty-four men, including eight lettermen, were on hand for the initial practice. The "Y" men reporting are Robson, Wayne Schwindt, Jim Townsend, Eloy Martinez, Jake Tomlinson, Bob Moomsey and Willis Friesen of last year's team and Denny Auchard, who lettered the previous year.

Robson has been putting the squad through intensive drills, working particularly on passing, set-up shots, and free throws. A short scrimmage has been ending the practices.

Two freshmen, Jim Hannon and Cliff Rhoades, are among the promising prospects and will probably make the squad. Hannon, with his height and long arms, should make a good pivot man. Rhoades has been working out at guard. Both Hannon and Rhoades lettered while they were in high school.

The Panthers should have a fairly good team this season. Robson and Auchard with their speed and accurate shooting should give the opposing team plenty to worry about. Robson will be up to his old tricks again this season of stealing the ball from the hands of the opponent.

With only three more work-outs, the Panthers should be in fair condition when they play their first game with Luther College at Wahoo on November 30. This will be the first of an eighteen game schedule.

WAA Sportstuff

The girls' state basketball teams are really shaping into some promising teams. And I hope to see a good tournament. Each team has selected names as follows: Nebr.—"Cornhuskers"; Iowa—"Blue Boy Champions"; Kans.—"Jayhawks"; Mont. and Colo.—"Rockettes"; New Mexico—"Indian Medadores". The Iowa team sounds overly optimistic—but time will tell.

A certain freshman girl asked "Impy" if riding around on a 1 1/2 red motor scooter could give her WAA credit. If it would, she would probably have enough points for her letter now. But "Impy" told "Bert", "No can do."

Little Mary Kay Armstrong, who incidentally, is a whiz on the basketball floor, looks almost lost in that "lumberjack shirt" she wears.

The WAA is really happy to have Margie back at the meetings again. Hi, Margie, from Susie.

AS I SEE IT

By Blaine Ronne

Football duds are being packed for the season and the blue and white basketball suits unpacked as the Panthers turn their backs on football and face the 1945-46 basketball season. The calendar has eighteen dates marked which means there will be eighteen games of basketball, the first on Nov. 30, and the last on March 8. I have a feeling that basketball fans are going to see plenty of bang-up basketball this season. The Panthers are out to win this season and are going to have much better results than they had last year.

I found this little article in Walt Dobbins' column, "I May Be Wrong", in last week's Nebraska State Journal:

"Herb Meyer, Concordia College, Seward, writes: 'For the Oddities Department—In our game with York which we won 50 to 8, the following happened: It was our 13th straight win; we had 13 men on our 6-man squad; 13 went to the game and all 13 played. The game was played on Friday and if it had been Nov. 13th, I'd send this one to Ripley.'"

Hastings College has a 20 game basketball schedule in the offering. Their first game is Dec. 11 at Hastings with the Panthers.

The N. C. A. C. will be functioning this year after a lapse of two years due to the war. The five colleges which compose the N. C. A. C. are York, Midland, Doane, Hastings, and Wesleyan. Competition will be hot and heavy as the teams battle for the number one spot.

Upperclasses Pay Debt To Freshmen

The freshman class were guests of honor at a party given by the upperclassmen November 17 at the college gym. The occasion was the result of the freshmen-upperclassmen contests held on Homecoming day.

The guests were divided into groups and members of each group were given a Thanksgiving emblem with which to identify themselves. Progressive games were played and the evening closed with light refreshments.

Zetas Debate Atomic Bomb Question

Resolved: "That the United States should share the secrets of the Atomic Bomb" was the topic for debate in a recent Zeta meeting. Even though the negative side was judged winners by a one-point margin, there was a general feeling in the group that the secrets must be shared, if world-unity is to be achieved.

Those participating were as follows: Negative, Esther Megill, senior, York; Marjorie Thornton, junior, Billings, Mont.; Eloy Martinez, sophomore, Antonito, Colo. Affirmative, Imogene Bland, senior, Shelby; Margaret Fitchett, sophomore, Des Moines, Ia.; and George Swartz, freshman, Lush-ton.

Others assisting with the program were: Reuben Ruybalid, freshman, Antonito, Colo., who led in the devotions; Elaine Goodwin, sophomore of Shickley, who played a piano solo, Concerto No. 1 by Tchaikowsky; and Peggy Ford, sophomore, of Mullinville, Kan., who gave an impromptu, "Advantages and Disadvantages of Being a Preacher's Daughter."

Among the Book Shelves

By Barbara Blanch

Of all the words of magic known to us, the ones most wonderful and familiar are "Curtain going up." They are the key to a world of make-believe, that is effectively portrayed in the books to be discussed this week.

Those three magic words are the title of a book by Gladys Malvern. It is a biography of Katharine Cornell, written with an understanding of the life in the other-world of the stage, for the author has spent eighteen years in the theatrical profession. At the request of Miss Cornell, the story reveals her life behind scenes.

Eve Le Gallienne has the distinction of being one of the few women who will admit her age. The title of her autobiography reveals her age, unless she forged the copyright, and gives facts to prove it. The name of her book is "At Thirty Three", and in it the actress claims she was born, which in itself, isn't unusual, but she states that she was born large, healthy, ugly and Cockney. The name of her father, Richard Le Gallienne, is well known in the literary world, and his poem, "Catalogue of Lovely Things," is among his best known works.

"The Fabulous Life of Sarah Bernhardt" by Louis Verneuil, has been translated from the French by Ernest Boyd. Verneuil is one of the most prolific of living French dramatists, having written more than one hundred original works in the last twenty-five years, over three-fourths of them successful. His admiration for Bernhardt began when he was very young and was climaxed when he wrote a drama, "Daniel", which enabled her to appear on the stage despite the loss of a leg. Not only does Verneuil call her the greatest actress of her time, but also one of the greatest of all the French. Oddly enough, she had no desire to become an actress, but was placed in school simply because her mother didn't want to bother with her.

If you think you're allergic to biographies, read "Good Night, Sweet Prince", by Gene Fowler. It's the story of John Barrymore, and I dare you not to laugh.

Nuggets From Chapel Talks

By Mary Katheryn Armstrong

The Rev. O'Linn McGuire, pastor of the local Baptist-Congregational Church, spoke in chapel recently stressing the self as public enemy number one of Christianity. "Self is the opium which puts us to sleep," said Rev. McGuire, "and makes us forget God and His will. In surrendering one's self to the will of God, the self can be made a result rather than a cause. There will be no peace in the world until every man has made peace with God," he concluded.

The possibility of knowing a lot about God and yet not to know Him was the essence of an address delivered recently in formal chapel by Dr. G. T. Savery, pastor of the college church. He emphasized the fact that "all men do not seek or find God in the same way" and that the "quest for God is both inspiring and eternal. Traces of God are to be found everywhere, in the minds and hearts of men and in nature," concluded Dr. Savery.

Relating education, Christianity and good citizenship as concerned each with the other two, Miss Edith Callender, head of the English department spoke recently in chapel. The program celebrated Armistice day, Book Week, National Education Week, and Religious Emphasis Week. Miss Callender quoted Daniel Webster as saying "whatever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens." She said that "good citizenship is backed by books, and religion is back of good citizenship. Good Christians have the Golden Rule to follow, although some have an independence of spirit which makes them lack consideration for others."

"To conform is to worship the God of things as they are," stated Dr. J. C. Morgan, head of the classical languages department, in the last formal chapel address. The goal of life is not reformation or conformation, but it is transformation. Dr. Morgan said, "Jesus would substitute peace for glory and Paul preached the gospel that the just shall live by faith."

The easiest way for some people to have a quiet little lunch is not to order soup.

Jane Martin Reviews "Curtain Going Up" At PALS Meeting

A book review of "Curtain Going Up!" by Gladys Malvern, was presented by Jane Martin, sophomore, Concordia, Kans., at a recent PALS meeting. A piano solo by Clifford Morgan, junior, York, and a vocal solo by Kenneth Hicks, junior, Iola, Kans., were also presented. Miss Mary Alice Slee, former faculty member and PALS critic, Guthrie Center, Ia., was a special guest of the evening.

"Curtain Going Up!" is the story of Katherine Cornell, a great American actress who was awarded the National Achievement Award. Among her more prominent plays are the following: The Barretts of Wimpole Street—1931-2, The Age of Innocence—1928, and The Green Hat—1922.

Group singing was led by Kenneth Hicks, and devotions were led by Mary Harris, senior, Nelson. After the meeting, the members met at the home of Miss Zelda Wakelin, PALS critic, for a visit with Miss Slee. Light refreshments were served by Miss Wakelin.
